

Article - Criminal Law

[Previous][Next]

§3–207.

(a) On a pretrial motion of the State, a court may dismiss a charge of assault if:

- (1) the victim and the defendant agree to the dismissal; and
- (2) the court considers the dismissal proper.

(b) The defendant shall pay the costs that would have been incurred if the defendant had been found guilty.

[Previous][Next]