

Article - Tax - General

[Previous][Next]

§10-504.

(a) A person may change the accounting period used to compute Maryland taxable income to any other period that the Comptroller approves.

(b) If a person changes accounting periods, the person shall file a separate return for the period between the close of the previous accounting period and the beginning of the newly adopted accounting period.

[Previous][Next]