WHEREAS, The University of Maryland, College Park is the State’s flagship public higher education institution. It has major undergraduate, graduate, and doctoral programs with a significant research component generating almost $500 million in 2013; and

WHEREAS, The University of Maryland, Baltimore has seven professional and graduate schools, including the only public school of medicine in the State, which train the majority of the State’s physicians, nurses, dentists, lawyers, social workers, and pharmacists; and
WHEREAS, There are almost no flagship research institutions the caliber of the University of Maryland, College Park or professional schools the caliber of the University of Maryland, Baltimore in the United States that do not have a connection between the flagship research institution and the medical school and law school; and

WHEREAS, All but one of the funding competitor state peers for the University of Maryland, College Park have a school of medicine, law, or both at the same institution and all of the “Big 10” institutions have both a school of medicine and a law school; and

WHEREAS, All of the funding competitor state peers for the University of Maryland, Baltimore are also research institutions; and

WHEREAS, The courses of study and degrees offered at the University of Maryland, College Park and the University of Maryland, Baltimore are complementary and largely unduplicated; and

WHEREAS, The national research rankings under a unified University of Maryland would dramatically improve creating greater opportunities for research in the State; and

WHEREAS, The total research expenditure ranking for the University of Maryland, College Park increases from 41st and the University of Maryland, Baltimore increases from 48th in the country to a ranking of 12th in the nation and 8th for a public institution, exceeding the ranking of institutions such as the Massachusetts Institute of Technology; and

WHEREAS, Federal research rankings increase from 31st in the country for the University of Maryland, College Park and 54th for the University of Maryland, Baltimore to 11th in the country, placing the unified institution ahead of institutions such as the Pennsylvania State University, the University of Virginia, and the University of California, Berkeley; and

WHEREAS, With both a unified University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins University located in Baltimore City, the City will be one of the only cities in the nation with two top–ranked research institutions within its borders; and

WHEREAS, Under the “MPower” initiative, joint research awards totaled almost $79 million over a 3–year period, an increase of 60%; and

WHEREAS, Technology transfer is a major and measurable economic impact of higher education in the State and through “MPower” and UM Ventures technology transfer has increased by 100% over 5 years with licensing revenue increasing 72% over the same period; and

WHEREAS, The success of joint efforts through the “MPower” initiative demonstrates the potential of a reunified major public research institution with the public professional schools in Maryland; and
WHEREAS, The missions of University of Maryland, College Park and University of Maryland, Baltimore include commitment to the social and economic health and development of the communities in which they are located, including collaboration in the areas of health care, housing and development, transportation, public education, public safety, and sustainability; and

WHEREAS, The University of Maryland, College Park, as a land grant college, the City of College Park, and Prince George’s County in recent years have successfully collaborated on joint projects, including the redevelopment of Route 1, the Innovation District, M Square, College Park Academy, the expansion of police protection, traffic cameras and security cameras, bike and pedestrian routes, bus service, and the Purple light rail line; and

WHEREAS, The University of Maryland, Baltimore and the City of Baltimore collaborate on joint projects, including the assistance of the professional schools in creating employment opportunities for Baltimore City residents; and

WHEREAS, The University of Maryland, Baltimore and the City of Baltimore also collaborate on joint projects, including the UMB Community Engagement Center in West Baltimore, Baltimore City community schools, the Promise Heights neighborhood, development of the University of Maryland BioPark and redevelopment of the city’s west side, the UMB CURE Scholars program, tutoring and mentoring initiatives throughout West Baltimore, and the provision of health care and social services to underserved city residents; and

WHEREAS, As the State continues slowly moving out of a national recession combined with federal government contraction, the State must take the steps necessary to position itself to be as competitive as possible in the economy of the future; and

WHEREAS, The State must plan now for what we know will create the technology and research jobs that will power our economy and ensure that Maryland is the place to go for state–of–the–art research, to take that research and spin it off into the marketplace, and to successfully build a company and create jobs based on the education and research opportunities in this State; now, therefore,

SECTION 1. BE IT ENACTED BY THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF MARYLAND, That Section(s) 2–103.1(c)(3) through 2–103.1(c)(7), respectively, of Article – Transportation of the Annotated Code of Maryland be renumbered to be Section(s) 2–103.1(c)(4) through 2–103.1(c)(8), respectively.
