

OPPOSE HB832

I ask that the committee oppose HB832. Maryland does not need a homeschool advisory board. The homeschool community has always had its own voice and has done a great job over the years coming together and uniting as needed. Although the state homeschool community is very diverse, something all homeschool families have been able to do is represent themselves. An advisory board will limit the voice of the homeschool community. Homeschooling families would like to speak for themselves without an appointed board doing so for them. Homeschool laws in Maryland do not need to be changed. The advisory board would mute the voice of homeschooling families and I ask that you please OPPOSE HB832.
