My name is Jeremy Collins and I'm writing in support of worker owned cooperatives and am favorable to this bill.

In today's modern era we need a new way of business and worker-owned cooperatives allow us to reimagine what it means to "work" and who gets what. I now work in a co-op after spending the first 10 years of my working life working in regular retail.

The level of transparency and decision making I have now versus what I had then is immeasurably greater. This structure feels more democratic and more empowering and I feel less alienated from the work I do.

I believe once we set up a proper structure to create this, more will form and we'll see positive economic impact.

Thank you,

Jeremy Collins
