

I am writing to advocate a NO vote on the amended HB333 bill that is titled "Election Law - Election Disinformation on Large Social Media Platforms and Improper Influence Related to Voting".

The reason I am advocating for a NO vote is because of the ambiguity of terms in the legislation. In particular, the legislation contains the words "election disinformation" as the action being legislated against.

However, and most importantly, the term "election disinformation" is not defined in the legislation. Without a clear and accurate definition of "election misinformation", interpretation of "election misinformation" can be weaponized against citizens merely expressing their thoughts and opinions.

In addition to abridging the right to free speech, my concern is that this term "election disinformation", can be used by one political party against members of the opposite political party who are expressing their thoughts and opinions.

In what and in whom do you believe? Do you believe in God? If yes, didn't He create us in his image and give us our freedom to think and reason and speak?

God has given us the ability to think and reason and speak and decide what is best for ourselves. This legislation grants certain people the temporary political power to possibly engage in activities for their own political gain. This legislation robs people of information, under the guise of arbitrarily calling that election information "election misinformation" that they should be able to hear and decide whether to follow, on their own.

This legislation steals a person's God given right to hear that which is their right to hear and steals a person's right to free speech enshrined in our Constitution to which you swore an oath to uphold.

Respectfully submitted,
