POSITION ON PROPOSED LEGISLATION

BILL: SB449: Criminal Procedure- Incompetency to Stand Trial Dismissal

FROM: Maryland Office of the Public Defender

POSITION: Unfavorable

DATE: 2/2/2024

The Maryland Office of the Public Defender respectfully requests that the Committee issue an unfavorable report on Senate Bill 449.

Senate Bill 449 proposes to Amend Criminal Procedure Article (CP) §3-107(a) in two ways. First it seeks to extend the time for dismissal after a continuous finding of Incompetency to Stand Trial for charges of First Degree Murder or Sexually Assaultive Behavior from five years to ten. Second SB 449 seeks to give victims the ability to petition the court to extend the time for dismissal based on extraordinary cause.

The Office of the Public Defender requests an unfavorable report on this bill for several reasons. First, it is unlikely to pass constitutional review under the principles set forth in Jackson v. Indiana, 406 U.S. 715 (1972.) Second, it is unnecessary as the vast majority of people become competent within our current statutory time frame. Third, this statute reaches well beyond situations proponents of this legislation in past years have indicated it is intended to encompass: giving victims a voice, ensuring that people with developmental disabilities are not released despite being dangerous, and extending the time for formerly capital offenses.

Constitutional Requirements:

People charged with criminal offenses who are committed solely because of they are Incompetent to Stand Trial (IST) cannot be held for more than a reasonable time necessary to determine whether they will ever become competent. Jackson v. Indiana, 406 U.S. 715 (1972.) Commitment for incompetency is for the purpose of restoring the individual's ability to participate in a constitutionally fair trial. Tying the length of hospitalization to the severity of the charge is based on a rationale of punishment rather than treatment, even though these individuals have not—and in fact may never be—convicted of a crime. The time frames outlined in the current statute are reasonable. Research indicates that the vast majority of people become competent to stand trial well within our current statutory time frame. Studies have variously reported restorability between 75% and 95% within a year.<sup>1</sup> In Maryland people who are found incompetent to stand trial, and who are dangerous, are committed either at the Spring Grove Hospital Center, Springfield Hospital Center, and Clifton T. Perkins Hospital; unless they are Intellectually Disabled in which case they go to a Secure Evaluation and Therapeutic Treatment (SETT) Center operated by DDA. While people are committed to those facilities for reasons other than being IST, the average length of stay at these facilities is nevertheless a reasonable gauge of how long it takes for people deemed dangerous to attain competency. According to the Department of Budget and Management, the average length of stay at these facilities for the last two years is approximately: Springfield Hospital: 65 days, Spring Grove Hospital: 363 in 2022, Perkins: 1200 days- 3.28 years.<sup>2</sup> Maryland has two SETT Centers, the average length of stay for both is one year.<sup>3</sup>

Unnecessary legislation:

The proposed legislation is not necessary to achieve the purported goals. As CP §3-107(a) currently stands the time required for dismissal is determined by the seriousness of the offense and longest possible sentence. However, dismissal is not necessarily the end of road for the defendant. People deemed to still be mentally ill may be involuntarily civilly committed to a hospital until such time as they are no longer mentally ill and dangerous— that commitment could last a lifetime. For individuals who are Intellectually Disabled, there are separate administrative procedures in place to address placement and public safety, but this commitment could also last a lifetime.<sup>4</sup>

Under the current law the State’s Attorney can already petition the court to find extraordinary cause to extend the time for dismissal. Further, the statutorily required dismissal of the case is without prejudice, meaning that offense could be re-charged by the State’s Attorney if they believe the defendant has become competent or there is a likelihood that the defendant will become competent in the foreseeable future. For the felony offenses referenced in this bill, there is no statute of limitations, so all of those offenses could be re-charged at any time.

Notice to victims and opportunity to be heard:

Annual review hearings are required to determine whether a defendant continues to be dangerous and therefore continues to need hospitalization.<sup>5</sup> Victims who have filed a notification request have a right to be notified of these hearings and to attend these hearings.<sup>6</sup> In most, if not all, jurisdictions the dismissal based on the statutory time frames is done at these hearings. As explained previously, the offense can be re-charged by the State's Attorney. Victims have ample opportunity, both before and after a dismissal without prejudice, to convey to the State's Attorney any information which suggests that the defendant is, or has become, competent to stand trial. Additionally, the law already requires notice and an opportunity to be heard to any victim who has requested notification if the court is considering dismissing the case with prejudice based on a finding that the defendant is unlikely to attain competency.<sup>7</sup>

Notice and an opportunity to be heard is not only required in District and Circuit Court proceedings, but also release proceedings heard by the Office of Administrative Hearings.<sup>8</sup> Further, when victims submit written or oral information the Health Department, Court, or Office of Administrative Hearings are required to consider the information when determining release or conditional release.

Individuals with Intellectual Disabilities

Proponents of previous iterations of this bill have raised concerns that someone with intellectual disabilities can not be held in a facility beyond 21 days. This is an incomplete understanding of the law. If a person with an Intellectual Disability is found incompetent to stand trial and dangerous they are committed to the Department of Health, who shall require the Developmental Disabilities

Administration (DDA) to provide for the care and treatment of the defendant.<sup>9</sup> If the court finds that the defendant is not likely to become competent in the foreseeable future and dismisses a case, and the individual has an intellectual disability the court shall order the defendant to be confined to a DDA facility for 21 days for the initiation of admission proceedings pursuant to Health General Article (HG) 5-703. Admission for 21 days pursuant to HG 5-703 is only the beginning of that process. Within that 21 day period, DDA is required to hold a hearing before an Administrative Law Judge (ALJ). Once admitted to a residential center people are entitled to another hearing within a year can only be conditionally released if it can be shown that no longer have a need for residential services for their adequate habilitation. Habilitation is defined as “a process by which a provider of services enables an individual to acquire and maintain life skills to cope more effectively with the demands of the individual’s own person and environment and to raise the level of the individual’s mental, physical, social and vocational functioning.”<sup>10</sup> People can only be unconditionally released if they are no longer in need of residential services, or if there is an available, less restrictive kind of service “consistent with the welfare and safety of the individual.”<sup>11</sup> Although the statutes reference “raising the level of ... social functioning” and the “welfare and safety” of the individual being hospitalized, it can hardly be said that it is consistent with someone’s welfare and safety, or raising the level of social functioning, to release them if they are dangerous to others.

Capital Offenses

Although proponents of previous iterations of this bill support it because it returns the 10 year dismissal time to the formerly capital offense of murder in the first degree, SB449 goes significantly further than that. It would also extend the dismissal times for child sex abuse, first and second degree rape, and third degree sex offense—none of which have ever been capital offenses in Maryland. The statute governing incompetency matters has undergone several iterations over the years in response to constitutional and logistical considerations.<sup>12</sup> Prior to 1967, there was no statutory law providing for dismissal of criminal charges against an individual who could not be restored to competency. Rather, if a defendant was adjudged incompetent to stand trial, he or she would be committed to an institution, and criminal charges would be stayed until such time as he or she could stand trial. Ray v. State, 410 Md. 384, 407 (2009). State v. Ray, 429 M. 566, 579-380 (2012).

In 2006, the Legislature was moved to scrutinize the entire competency statute following a lawsuit brought by the Maryland Disability Law Center (MDLC) challenging the constitutionality of the statute. MDLC argued that Maryland must adhere to the dictates of Jackson v. Indiana, 406 U.S. 715 (1972) and require “that the nature and duration of confinement bear some reasonable relation to its purpose.” 429 Md. at 581.

CJP §3-106 was the result of “long discussion and compromise” among members of a multidisciplinary work group convened to examine the statute. Id. at 582. Significant changes were made to the statute, including to section §3-107. HB 795 added a paragraph that mandated dismissal of charges upon expiration of requisite time periods. The revised version also added the language that dismissal is “without prejudice.” A ten-year dismissal date was reserved solely for capital cases, no doubt with the understanding that “death is different.” See, Ford v. Wainwright, 477 U.S. 399, 411 (1986). In 2013, the statute was again revised to remove the ten-year dismissal time to address the abolition of the death penalty. There was no need to otherwise change the statute. In accordance with Jackson, the statutory time frames for dismissal are outer limits of when a case must be dismissed, rather than a discrete point in time when dismissal must be considered. The Court of Appeals said, “[t]he General Assembly created the upper limit on how long the State may attempt to work toward the goal of making an incompetent defendant become competent.” 429 Md. 566, 595 (2012) (Emphasis supplied). Acknowledging that, the Court considered the issue of dismissal of charges in State v. Ray, 429 Md. 566 (2012) and its progeny. See Ray v. State, 410 Md. 384 (2009) (Ray I) and Adams and Ray v. State, 204 Md. App 418 2012 (Ray II). In Ray I, the Court held that extraordinary cause “must require more than dangerousness and restorability,” Ray v. State, 410 Md. 384, 419 (2009). In accordance with Jackson v. Indiana, the Court reasoned that if restorability and dangerousness amounted to extraordinary cause, it “could result in indefinite institutionalization, without procedural protection.” Id. at 415.

In the final Ray chapter, State v. Ray, 429 Md. 566 (2012), the Court of Appeals took no issue with re-indictment, but remanded with directions to make findings as to whether Ray could be restored to competence, a fact which had never been raised or established, Id. at 496, again recognizing the constitutional principle set forth in Jackson v. Indiana, that commitment for competency reasons is just that. Further extending the time for dismissal of the specified charges is punitive, not restorative.

For these reasons, the Maryland Office of the Public Defender urges this Committee to issue an unfavorable report on Senate Bill 449.
