HB752

Criminal Law - Theft and Fraud Crimes - Valuation and Forgery of Gift Cards

House Judiciary Committee

March 5, 2026

Position: Favorable

Written Comments: The Maryland Retailers Alliance writes in strong support of HB752 Criminal Law- Theft and Fraud Crimes- Valuation and Forgery of Gift Cards Though the Gift Scams Prevention Act of 2024 has established a new packaging regime to help tackle the ever-growing issue of gift card fraud, it does not address the remaining issue that retailers face in situations of gift card theft; retailers struggle to pursue cases against perpetrators of gift card theft under current law because gift cards have no monetary value before they are activated. HB752 would explicitly prohibit theft of gift cards, address possession of stolen activated gift cards or the gift card redemption information to drain funds and address situations where a criminal drains funds from the stolen gift card by purchasing merchandise that is later sold on the secondary market. This would allow retailers, law enforcement, and prosecution teams to further address the issue of gift card scams with the ability to pursue perpetrators of theft.

Gift card fraud can fall into several categories of theft schemes:

1. The perpetrator uses one of several fraud techniques to directly acquire a card, such as using a stolen credit card to buy a gift card.
2. The perpetrator adds an innocent shell to the scheme who is tricked into buying the card with the shell's money.
3. The focus of the fraud switches to stealing an existing card, or the funds thereon, out from under an innocent cardholder.
4. The fraudster attacks the card balance limit by scamming below the limit at retailers who elect not to authorize cards or by fraudulently beating the limit on large purchases.
5. The perpetrator goes straight to the heart of the matter and uses of counterfeit codes or instruments.
6. The card is purchased as a part of illicit or money laundering activities.
7. The fraud's focus is switched from the gift card to identity theft with the perpetrator seeking personal identifiable information on cardholders for later illicit purposes.

Because at this time there is very little retailers, law enforcement and prosecutors can do to address these types of crimes, we urge the legislature to take action by supporting this important piece of legislation before you.
