Legal Analysis

Summary of Regulations

The regulations make technical changes to existing provisions on customer relations concerning reconnection of electricity service and on theft of service. Regulation .01-2G provides that the Office of External Relations of the Public Service Commission may require an electric utility to reconnect electric service to a customer whose service has been terminated due to nonpayment or to equipment tampering, if (1) the reconnected service is safe; (2) the customer pays two months' estimated service charges prospectively; and (3) the customer either pays any outstanding arrearage or enters into an alternate payment plan that the electric utility agrees to.

Regulation .05G authorizes an electric utility to issue an estimated bill if the customer's meter has been tampered or interfered with, and requires the electric utility to retain all materials used in calculating the estimated bill for a specified period.

Legal Issues

The regulations present no legal issues of concern.

Statutory Authority and Legislative Intent

The commission cites §§ 2-113, 2-121, 4-202, 5-101, and 7-305 of Public Utilities Article as statutory authority for the regulations. These provisions provide for the commission's general supervisory and regulatory authority over public services, the commission's authority to adopt regulations, service tariffs, the commission's power to regulate standards for service by public service companies, and electric customer billing, respectively.

This authority is correct and complete. The regulations comply with the legislative intent of the law.
