MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR. DAY ADDRESS

DELEGATE JILL P. CARTER
Baltimore City

Esteemed colleagues, Members of the Maryland House of Delegates, Mr. Speaker, let me first say how humble, grateful, and honored I am to stand before you today. I want to thank all of you, particularly, the Legislative Black Caucus for giving me the opportunity to address you on this occasion of remembrance and tribute to the Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Again, my heart is full, thank you.

As we gather today to honor the memory of the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., let us also open our hearts and minds to the memory of his wife, who was “married to the movement,” Coretta Scott King. While the rest of us lost a drum major for justice, a drum major for peace, a drum major for righteousness, she lost her husband and the father of her four young children. But never her dignity, never her composure, never her purpose. Martin’s story cannot be revered, regarded, and remembered without honoring Coretta: an outspoken critic of war and apartheid; an advocate of gay rights, animal rights, and human rights. Coretta Scott King was the custodian of her family’s faith and our nation’s spirit. She endured wiretaps, death threats, innuendo, and hardship to service justice. Mrs. King once said: “When you are willing to make sacrifices for a great cause, you will never be alone.” It gives us comfort on this day to know she and Martin are together again, casting their hopeful eyes upon us.

As I prepared my text for this occasion, I pondered a question that left me feeling as if I tugged upon an unraveling thread in the otherwise glorious fabric of the King Holiday. As I struggled to find the proper balance between reverence and observation, this question nagged me, like a pebble nestled in the arch of my shoe. So, please indulge me, for I must raise it: How would Dr. King feel about our gathering today? More specifically, how would he feel about those that have gathered to honor him and the way we’ve chosen to do so?

I raise the question not as a contrarian or recalcitrant, though some might use such words to describe my passion for advocacy. I raise the question because I am struck by a peculiar paradox. Many will gather in Maryland and across the nation to speak Dr. King’s words and recall his deeds, while working overtime to counter his philosophy, dismantle his progress, and alienate his progeny. I hope I don’t need to call names.

If you must know of whom I speak, look no further than the state of our public schools. Look no further than our inner city neighborhoods, the aftermath of Hurricane Katrina, or the misguided policy, which has our young men and women dying on foreign soil.

If you still don’t know of whom I speak, think of those whose strategy for gaining power depended upon the suppression and marginalization of the vote of people of color in Florida and Ohio, the very people Dr. King represented at the signing of the Voting Rights Act.

And, if you still don’t know of whom I speak, stroll through Baltimore. Watch as shining towers of steel, concrete, and glass rise in the Inner Harbor and downtown, while those that live in the forgotten areas of our city serve life sentences in substandard housing, substandard schools, and travail neighborhoods of boards, bricks, broken glass, and broken spirits.

Talk, as I have, to those that have turned a cynical ear to the promises of politicians, the prayers of preachers, the lessons taught by frustrated teachers, the admonishments of demoralized police officers, and the echoes of their childhood dreams.

Yet, there are people honoring Dr. King today, who travel the country pushing ballot initiatives, which seek to deny access to students struggling to overcome the legacy of systemic discrimination. Even here, in the great state of Maryland, in her largest city of Baltimore, we put more black boys in the penal system than we graduate from high school. Yet, those charged with finding solutions have told us, “we’re on the right track,” “the issues are too complex,” “we are doing the best we can do.” “We’re making progress.”

Despite their best efforts, it is easier for a pregnant mother to get heroin than healthcare in some neighborhoods. The city’s great investment downtown, has filled the pockets of many from out of town. Yet, we haven’t created or guaranteed jobs or opportunity to those who live in our town.

So across this nation, we gather today to honor a man who sacrificed for social and economic justice as if his legacy is distinct from our reality. It is not.

Do we truly honor Dr. King with a parade? With the laying of a wreath? Do we honestly honor the legacy of that great orator – that man who moved into the slums of Chicago to shine the light on economic injustice, that man who spoke out for the humanity of little brown children being burned by bomb blast and napalm in Vietnam, and that scholar who preached, practiced, and endured for non-violence – by allowing hope and faith to wither in the hearts of the people he loved?

I say we cannot honor King by gathering those of title and status on podiums across this nation, to quote him out of context, manipulate his intent, or ignore the subtext of his life. In fact, we risk making a mockery of a man and his mission, by treating him solely as an icon, devoid of dirt beneath his nails from the intense labor of tilling the rigid, rock-laden soil of the social and political landscape of this country, hoping for gold at the heart of America’s soul. Dr. King fostered a movement that forced America to confront America. He called on the principles of democracy and capitalism to serve all as FUNCTION, not merely PRODUCT. He challenged the conscious of the individual to consider the importance of serving that which is permanent, before contemplating that which serves only personal, temporary self-interest:

Dr. King said:

“Power properly understood is nothing but the ability to achieve purpose. It is the strength required to bring about social, political and economic change.”

Dr. King said:

“The time is always right to do what is right.”

Dr. King said:

“The ultimate measure of a man is not where he stands in moments of comfort and convenience, but where he stands at times of challenge and controversy.”

Dr. King said:
“Our scientific powers have outrun our spiritual powers; we have guided missiles and mis-guided men.”

Dr. King said:

“True peace is not merely the absence of tension, it is the presence of justice.”

Dr. King said:

“Of all the forms of inequality, injustice in health care is the most shocking and inhumane.”

Dr. King said:

“The greatest sin of our time is not the few who have destroyed but the vast majority who sat idly by.”

And,

“In the end, we will remember not the words of our enemies but the silence of our friends.”

My friends, I no longer wonder what Dr. King – a man of courageous actions and penetrating words – would think of this holiday, this world, us.

A wise person once said that if you take your goals and subtract your doubts and fears, you are left with your reality. In Baltimore, the reality is that 76% of African-American boys will not finish high school, the reality is that it’s still easier to get a gun on the street than a quality education in the classroom. The reality is our children test last in the state, and our state listens to the needs of our children last. So, I ask, what are we afraid of? What are we waiting for?

When will justice come to all of Maryland? When will justice come to Baltimore? When will a quality education be treated as a fundamental right? When will those we elect to run our cities and states focus on finishing the job they have, before seeking the next opportunity? When will we truly honor the legacy of The Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.?

We can all honor Dr. King’s legacy by making this day of observance – a National Day of Service. My father, Walter P. Carter, believed that. He practiced a purposeful life in pursuit of justice. In 1965, as President of CORE, through direct action, he desegregated hotels and restaurants, in Maryland, from Baltimore City to Ocean City. In 1971, his last words, spoken in a speech on the day of his death were: “I will commit the rest of my life to making this city a fit place where our kids can live.” At the time of his death, Walter was leading the city’s fight against slum and substandard housing, unfair housing practices, blockbusting. Today, in 2007, we are just getting back around to addressing one remnant of those unfair housing practices, i.e. ground rents. There is only one way to truly honor my father and Dr. King. We must measure how great and civilized our society is not by the power it obtains, or how shiny or tall its buildings appear, or the levels of destruction it can cause with its weapons. Our society’s greatness must be measured by how well it treats those that have the least.

In Maryland, in Baltimore, we have what we need to succeed, to overcome the obstacles we face, and the tribulations, which await. Our collective will to do so will be reflected just outside our doors, through the corridors of our halls of power, in the classrooms where our children learn, in our statistics when murder, rape, and robbery decline and random acts of economic justice run rampant in the human resource offices of our small and large corporations.

I honor King, I honor my father, I honor you with each breath I take for the service that you give. I pledge the rest of my life to the pursuit of progress, justice, and equity. Please, wake up each day, and further the legacy of Dr. King, with your courage, your commitment, and your voice in the choir for justice.

Thank you.

STATE OF THE STATE ADDRESS

Remarks of Governor Martin O’Malley

To my wife Katie and our children… To my mom Barbara O’Malley… and to Joe Curran, one of the great public servants in our state’s history, thank you for all your support.
Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, Chief Judge, Mr. Attorney General, Mr. Comptroller, Madame Treasurer, my colleagues in government of the Maryland General Assembly, my colleagues in county and municipal government, my fellow citizens and friends.

Today, we assess our strengths and weaknesses and set out an agenda for making progress towards our shared goals.

Because of the values that we share as Marylanders, I think you will agree that there are certain timeless goals that together we choose to pursue as a State:

• To strengthen and grow our middle class, our family owned businesses and family farms.

• To improve public safety and public education in every part of our state.

• To expand opportunity – the opportunities for learning, for earning, and for enjoying the health of the people, the land, and the water we love – to more people rather than fewer.

A Strong State

Fourteen days into the four years the people have given us to do their business, I am glad to report that thanks to the hard work of citizens in decades past – and despite the drift of recent years – the state of our state, today, is strong.

Maryland is the 2nd wealthiest state in the union. Our institutions of scientific and healing discovery – known throughout the world – are among the largest recipients of research grants in the nation. And we are blessed with a variety of natural beauty of land and water unrivaled in any state our size.

But in many ways, for all our achievements and blessings, we are also a state of extremes:

• A strong state with a huge looming structural deficit.

• A strong state with a violent crime rate that is one of the highest in the nation.

• A strong state where the number of uninsured citizens has reached nearly 800,000, as increasing numbers of small businesses find it financially impossible to cover their employees healthcare costs.

• A strong state where more and more hard-working families are finding the dream of college education slipping out of reach.
Yes, we are a strong state, today. But not as strong as we should be – or as strong as our country needs us to be.

E.B. White once wrote that we are torn by two powerful drives: The desire to enjoy the world and the urge to set it straight. And so it is with Maryland. We know that to sustain those things which we so love about our state – our Bay, our neighborhoods, our places of higher thought, our quality of life – we must set things straight… or they will be irreparably harmed, perhaps forever lost.

We have consensus around the goals we share. Now, we must forge consensus around the obligations we must meet to sustain our progress toward those shared goals.

Strengthen and Grow Our Middle Class

To strengthen and grow our middle class – especially as we face our budget challenges – it is time to apply our strengths to solving the problems of our day. Time to apply our strengths to addressing our weaknesses.

Time to improve public education at all levels… to simultaneously improve public safety and homeland security… to extend health care coverage… to conserve, protect and improve the environmental health of the Chesapeake Bay watershed… to strengthen women and minority owned businesses in our state … to advance and realize a statewide vision for transportation that includes mass transit, as well as roads… and time to stand up again to powerful wealthy special interests whenever they try to profiteer on the backs of the working people of our State.

Making Our Government Work Again

Since all of these endeavors will require a working government, let us first resolve to make our government work again.

Facing structural deficits amounting to more than $4 billion in the years to come, I ask you to approve a rate of growth in this year’s budget that is just 2.5% – lower than the rate of inflation, lower than last year’s 12% growth in government spending, and lower than 9 of the last 10 state budgets.

I also ask for your support in confirming the best leaders we can find to run the very costly and complex departments of our government. Lieutenant Governor Brown and I are grateful for your patience, President Miller, as we assemble a professional cabinet with the ability, the expertise, and the professionalism to work with each member of this Assembly – regardless of party affiliation.
In order to make our government work with greater efficiency and effectiveness, we will be implementing StateStat – a system of open and transparent administration that sets goals and measures progress towards achieving those goals, with relentless follow-up.

In order to make our government work more effectively, I ask for your cooperation in creating a new sub-cabinet on Base Realignment and Closure (BRAC) chaired by the Lieutenant Governor. To help put the challenge we face in perspective, BRAC will result in our state absorbing a city the size of Bowie – more than 25,000 households – in just a few short years.

Maryland has been called upon to play a bigger, more important role in the defense of our nation. And so we must bring greater coordination and cooperation to this effort. Our State government must work more effectively with our county governments – to defend our quality of life in Harford, Anne Arundel, Frederick, Montgomery and other counties – while answering America’s urgent security needs.

In order to make our government work, I will also be asking for your cooperation in elevating the importance of information technology in the management of state government. This will mean better coordinating IT functions and creating, for the first time, a cabinet level Department of Information Technology.

In order to make our government work for working families, we must also restore the regulatory framework of our state government. To protect consumers and restore stability and predictability for businesses, we now have an opportunity to put professional regulators back on the job at the Public Service Commission.

And by making our government work, we will also start making regular, measurable strides toward increasing the participation of minority and women-owned businesses in the economy of our State. With a government that works, we will build from our competitive economic strengths in science, technology, security and renewable energy to expand earning opportunities for our citizens.

Improving Public Education and Public Safety

But beyond the means of a working government are the goals of improved public education and improved public safety – the very foundations of strong neighborhoods, strong counties, and a stronger and growing middle class.

To improve public education in every part of our State:

- I ask for your support for the final year of Thornton school funding – the largest single year increase in Maryland history for education, with an additional $580 million in funding for local school systems;
• I ask that you pass legislation codifying our State’s commitment to phase in funding of the Geographic Cost of Education Index, beginning next year;

• I ask that, together, we start to get our children out of the temporary learning shacks that have been popping up behind every school in our state – and approve the record $400 million in school construction dollars proposed in this year’s budget; and

• I ask for your support, in this year’s budget, to increase our investment in our institutions of higher learning by $192 million – including an 18% increase for Community Colleges.

Along with those investments, I ask for your support of SB 108 and HB 134 to freeze any further increase in tuition this year for in-state students. This will give families some relief while Lieutenant Governor Brown works with the Hogan Commission on a long-term solution to keep higher education affordable. Working families must be able to send their children to Maryland colleges.

When it comes to improving Public Safety and Homeland Security in our State, we have our work cut out for us.

Our Department of Corrections, Parole and Probation, and Juvenile Services are deeply troubled. All are in urgent need of reform and have been for some time – little wonder that Maryland is the 5th most violent state in the union.

Compounding our challenge is the fact that our nation’s capital is now – and for the foreseeable future will remain – a prime target in a new type of global warfare.

Among other things, I ask for your support for an additional $7 million in this year’s budget to fund 155 additional correctional officers. I ask for your support for $2 million additional dollars to protect Maryland families from sexual predators, with advanced Global Positioning Systems that tracks offenders.

I ask for your support for an additional $500,000 to allow the Maryland State Police to knock out the huge backlog of violent offenders from whom DNA “fingerprints” have yet to be taken. Finally, I ask for your support for an additional $5 million to expand drug treatment through the increased use of recently approved buprenorphine therapies.

And I look forward to working with leaders of both houses as, together, we find new ways to attack our common enemies of gang violence and violent crime.

In order to make Maryland a leader in improving Homeland Security, we will:

• Constitute a new Maryland Security Council to bring all relevant agencies and departments into the prevention, preparedness and recovery regimen on a quarterly basis.
And we will quickly secure a professional and expert assessment of Maryland’s true level of homeland security and emergency preparedness, so we can begin to produce the security deliverables that our people’s safety demands;

• We will pursue the cooperation of our neighbors in the District of Columbia and Virginia – and our respective congressional delegations – to secure an expanded federal definition of the National Capital Region for homeland security purposes; and

• I have directed our Transportation Secretary to formulate a plan of action that will lead to the Port of Baltimore becoming the best inspected and most secure port in the United States.

Expanding Opportunity

Today, we compete economically as never before on a global and faster track. In a very real way, our economic security and competitiveness as a State depends on our ability to expand greater opportunities to greater numbers of our citizens.

Having already touched on our agenda for greater learning and earning opportunities, let us turn to the agenda we share for progress on healthcare and our environment.

Health Care

In order to begin to turn around the alarming healthcare trend of rising costs and a rising number of uninsured Marylanders every year, I ask that you pass the Maryland Healthcare Act. Among other things the act will:

• Create a Health Insurance Exchange to help small businesses find more affordable coverage for their employees – on a pre-tax basis.

• It will require insurance companies to allow younger adults up to age 25 to be covered under their parents’ policies.

• And it will also provide healthcare coverage to more children in our state.

I also ask for your support for several other initiatives in this year’s proposed budget:

• $25 million for Stem Cell research – a 66% increase over last year’s appropriation.

• The restoration of Medicaid healthcare benefits to legal immigrant families, including 3,000 children.

• And over $100 million to strengthen our provider systems by increasing reimbursement rates for doctors participating in our State’s Medicaid Program.
When physicians and other providers do not receive adequate compensation for the services they provide, it threatens the quality and effectiveness of our healthcare system. Therefore, as part of our legislative agenda, I ask for your support of the task force on Health Care Access and Physician Reimbursement.

I also ask for your support to create a Life Science Advisory Board – as a potential precursor to a true Life Sciences Authority – so that we can more effectively grow an industry that already employs 57,000 people in and around places like NIH, Johns Hopkins, the University of Maryland and the Food and Drug Administration, to name just a few.

And finally on healthcare, I ask for your support of a Universal Vaccine Purchasing Task Force, so we can better understand how to protect Marylanders against the flu and other foreseeable diseases.

Because healthcare is a battle of a thousand partial victories, I look forward to working with Chairman Hammen, Chairman Middleton and others in the weeks ahead, as we roll up our sleeves to craft ways to improve healthcare coverage and our healthcare outcomes.

Our Environment

When it comes to the urgent work of protecting and improving the health of our Chesapeake Bay watershed for the benefit of generations to come, there is no time to waste. Nor is there a better time to begin looking toward the next generation of technologies – to protect our environment and build our economy.

Because smart sustainable growth is absolutely central to preserving our quality of life in this sensitive Bay watershed, I have directed our Secretary of Planning to reestablish the Office of Smart Growth within his agency – to help coordinate growth across agencies lines.

As we move forward with the development of BayStat – to apply performance measured management to all of our Bay restoration efforts – please know that the following items are all contained in the proposed budget before you:

• Every dollar of Open Space funding this year – an estimated $289 million – will be spent on open space.

• An additional $138 million, with your support, will go to improve local water and wastewater systems for the benefit of the health of the Bay.
• And with your support, this budget will also provide record funding for cover crops and will triple Maryland’s investment in the development of agriculture and resource-based industries through MARBIDCO.

By making sustainable farming in Maryland more profitable, we preserve open space and improve the health of the Bay.

Speaker Busch has been a tremendous champion of another bill I am asking you to support. The Oyster Restoration Act will, for the first time, allow our Department of Natural Resources to lease parcels of land on the floor of the Bay for oyster restoration projects. We need to restore this natural aquatic filter to the Chesapeake if we hope to turn it around.

As we accept our responsibility in the fight against global warming, I ask you to support the Clean Cars Act, adopting stricter pollution emission standards for cars sold in Maryland. By taking action, we can help children suffering with asthma. We can remove pollutants from the air and the Bay. And we can join 11 other states in getting this done, this year.

We will also be revamping the Maryland Energy Administration to spearhead our state’s effort advancing the development of clean and renewable energy, including the next generation of biofuels – like cellulosic ethanol – which our academic institutions and private companies are already pursuing. And government should lead the way by increasing the percentage of clean fuels we purchase each year and by investing in green building technologies. Maryland can and should lead on energy independence.

Transportation

Because the decisions we make about transportation determine – in a very real way – the future character of our State, this year’s budget also fully protects the integrity of the Transportation Trust Fund. I ask for your support for the over $1 billion dollars in highway and roads projects across our state, and the $300 million in mass transit projects.

And I look forward to working with all of you in the months ahead as we bring greater balance to our efforts in transportation – solutions that foster smarter and more sustainable patterns of growth for our future. But all of us must recognize that however efficiently and effectively we stretch our State’s current investment in transportation solutions, we will never be able to multiply “bread and fishes” to cover the multitude of needs without new dollars.

Conclusion

My friends there are many other initiatives that will strengthen and grow our middle class – the agency fee legislation that allows state workers the right to organize and have their collective voice heard; and an end to the cruel and antiquated practice of using ground rents to evict families from their homes.

In the days of this first session, I hope that we will be able to spend the vast majority of our time solving problems and coming together around the solutions about which there is so much consensus – and for which, I might add, there is considerable pent-up demand.
The people of our State desperately want us to get things done again.

If we must have potentially polarizing debates this session – on issues like taxes, slots and the future of Maryland’s 18,000 racing jobs, and Maryland’s ineffective death penalty law – let us do so recognizing that there are good and decent people on both sides of these debates.

We cannot resolve every unsettled issue in just 90 days; nor can we heal in 90 days divisions that were four years in the making. But we must do all that we can to maximize the effectiveness of this session – and these four years – for the people of our State. For success breeds success. Mutual respect builds mutual trust. And important things done well make even greater things possible.

This year, together, we are choosing to make progress on the priorities of the people who elected us. Implicit, however, in the choices we make this year is the faith that we have the courage to face up to the fiscal reality before us in the year ahead.

If not, we risk going back to a time that we were not particularly proud of – making life less affordable for middle class families… Cutting funds to local government… Stealing from our children’s future by taking money away from open space, and shifting transportation dollars away from reducing traffic. I don’t believe that is the sort of future we would choose.

With all humility, I promise you I will not squander the year ahead. To the contrary, I will do everything in my power to bring spending under control with professional management. I will do everything in my power to squeeze savings out of your government with performance measurement and accountability. And I know you will do your tough jobs, as well.

So, let’s get to work… for a better and stronger future… for the people of our One Maryland. So, let’s get to work.

APPOINTMENTS

February 12, 2007

RESOLVED THAT THE SPEAKER MAKES THE FOLLOWING JOINT COMMITTEE APPOINTMENTS:

JOINT COMMITTEE ON PROTOCOL:

Hon. Joanne C. Benson (House Chairman)
Hon. Sally Y. Jameson
Hon. A. Wade Kach
Hon. Ruth M. Kirk
Hon. Robert A. McKee

RESOLVED, THAT THE SPEAKER MAKES THE FOLLOWING JOINT STATUTORY COMMITTEE APPOINTMENTS:
LINCOLN’S BIRTHDAY ADDRESS
Delegate A. Wade Kach
Baltimore County

Mr. Speaker, Fellow Delegates, Guests:

On this day 198 years ago—when I was first elected to the legislature—a future President was born to a pair of uneducated farmers in Nolin Creek, Kentucky. And as they say, he must have been an ugly baby. In fact, as described by an anonymous British writer in the June 1, 1862, edition of the New York Sunday Mercury, Abraham Lincoln would probably not have impressed the three-judge panel on American Idol. According to this account:

“To say that he is ugly is nothing…Fancy a man six feet high and thin out of proportion..... Add to this a head—coconut-shaped and somewhat too small—covered with rough uncombed hair that stands out in every direction...with two rows of large, white teeth and a nose and ears which have been taken by mistake from a head of twice the size.”

Surely, if Mary Todd Lincoln were alive today she would have insisted that her husband go in for an Extreme Makeover. I mean, is it any wonder Lincoln said, “Common looking people are the best in the world?” He went on to explain, “That is the reason the Lord makes so many of them.” Of course, it’s also the reason we have so many in the legislature—not me though. Indeed for Lincoln, looking or even being common was not a liability, nor was it a glib talking point used to propel a man to higher office. He presided over a time in our history in which common men and women made uncommon sacrifices for the common good.
Once asked to define government, Abraham Lincoln responded, “Government is the collection of people who come together to do that which they could not do—as well or at all—as individuals.” Now, good people can and, no doubt, forever will debate the scope and content of those things that draw individuals of such diverse backgrounds together. Yet on this night we come together to honor the legacy of an honest man who called forth a great nation to see in itself the promise of freedom.

It is a well-known legacy of humble beginnings and a journey fraught with ineffable personal hardships, culminating in the triumph of war and tragedy of his death. But beyond all this—beyond the litany of lost elections and failed business ventures—lies a decent and humble man, a man not terribly impressed with himself.

Although he was fairly adroit at the art of storytelling. You see, in those days a man could walk right into the White House and speak with the President demanding action on a particular grievance. So Lincoln, with his characteristic disarming sense of humor, would tell him, “Now, that reminds me of a little story that I heard back in Indiana when I was a boy.” He would proceed to tell the man this story, laughing—often laughing at his own story—and slapping his thigh. Finishing the story, he’d rise to his feet and say, “Well, Mr. Smith, it was so very nice to see you. Thank you for stopping by.” Hmm…reminds me of someone…Mr. Speaker?

As he showed him the way out, Mr. Smith would have no idea what had just happened. I can see several of my esteemed colleagues are thinking, ‘That’s brilliant! Why didn’t I think of that?’ Of course, it’s all too simple to take a cynical view in the present, claiming that Lincoln was shallow and evasive. But surely his prolific words and valorous deeds suggest otherwise. Simply put, Lincoln recognized what many modern office holders tend to forget: disagreement is not the province of sworn enemies; disagreement is the foundation of good government.

And that’s precisely what distinguishes this man from so many others who have occupied this nation’s highest office. More than the rhetorical flourishes for which he is immortalized in school pageants and oratorical contests, Lincoln possessed the unassailable wisdom to know when to simply shut his mouth and listen. He explained, “I am rather inclined to silence, and whether that be wise or not, it is at least more unusual nowadays to find a man who can hold his tongue than to find one who cannot.” Sadly, it’s even more unusual today.

But curiously, while we live in a time in which leaders instinctively shun the notion that they pay any attention to polls of public opinion, Lincoln made no apologies. “Public sentiment is everything,” he noted. “With public sentiment, nothing can fail; without it nothing can succeed.” And isn’t that the perfect corollary to his quintessential definition of government? If we are truly comprised of a ‘collection of people’—common, ordinary people—then we must never forget to heed the call, or email as it may be, of these people.
In fact, often overlooked in the annals of Lincoln history are two vital initiatives he signed into law that dramatically improved the lives of generations of ordinary Americans. The Morill Land-Grant College Act, which had been vetoed by James Buchanan, was signed by Lincoln in 1862, signaling a new hope of opportunity for millions of Americans. We here in Maryland proudly bear the legacy of two such institutions: The University of Maryland College Park and The University of Maryland Eastern Shore, which, of course, has the distinction of being one of more than 100 historically black colleges and universities throughout this land.

Likewise, the Homestead Act, signed by Lincoln in the same year, endowed the yeoman farmer—the consummate common man—with 160 acres to chart his own destiny. In all, nearly a million and a half settlers created 372,000 farms in the American West. Common men and women with a common purpose rising to uncommon heights. This was the vision of America Lincoln so readily embraced.

And this vision continues to form the foundation of our great nation. I’m certain that each one of us has a story or two about folks in our own communities that have uniquely contributed to the common good without aspiring to prominence. Our State is blessed to have a ‘collection of people’—young and old—that respond to the needs of their communities in ways uncommon.

Included in this collection are people like Rick Bauer, a Hereford High School senior who devoted over 500 hours last summer building students at Sparks Elementary an environmental Outdoor Learning Center. You might think this is some ordinary high school student, but Rick’s parents, Steven and Kristine, who are here with him tonight, know that their son is far from ordinary.

With a weighted GPA of 5.065, nine AP courses under his belt, and seven varsity letters for track and field, indoor track and cross country, Rick will graduate this spring with the knowledge that he has made his community an even better place to live. A member of Boy Scout Troop 451 who was recently awarded the rank of Eagle Scout, Rick has fostered a spirit of excitement among the kids at Sparks by creating an outdoor amphitheater classroom and several hiking trails around the school, including a stream nature trail. Talk about selfless and uncommon devotion to the common good.

And lest anyone think that our seniors—members of the aptly-described ‘Greatest Generation’—have any intention to stop sacrificing for the common good, look no further than Gene Conger, a 78-year-old retiree from Jacksonville, who along with his wife Rita—both here with us this evening—has led the effort to ship over four and a half tons of shoe box care packages to our service men and women in Iraq and Afghanistan.

An unexpected and overwhelming outpouring of generosity from the community has even helped Gene and Rita send hundreds of pounds of clothes for the Afghani people... and toys for Iraqi children. The hundreds of shoe boxes filled with common items, like yo-yos, candy, disposable cameras, and toothpaste, are a poignant reminder of the bond between generations of Americans grateful for the extraordinary sacrifices of ordinary men and women.

Though generations apart, Rick Bauer and Gene and Rita Conger share a common concern for the world around them. You know, it’s funny how we have relegated the very word ‘common’ to imply someone or something that is ‘second-rate,’ when, in fact, the term originally referred to something ‘shared by two or more individuals or by all members of a group.’ Lincoln seemed to know this intuitively.

Above all else, he sought to preserve this Union, this marvelous collection of people, calling it “the last best hope of earth.” No small feat for such a common-looking man who, when seeking reelection in 1864, candidly admitted, “I have not permitted myself to conclude that I am the best man in the country.” Perhaps he wasn’t. Yet he believed in this nation and its people when many others found reason not to.

Just prior to receiving his party’s nomination for president, Lincoln summed up his life in these few words: “I was born Feb. 12, 1809, in Hardin County, Kentucky. My parents were both born in Virginia, of undistinguished families. My mother, who died in my tenth year, was of a family of the name of Hanks....My father...moved from Kentucky to...Indiana, in my eighth year...There I grew up....When I came of age I did not know much. Still somehow, I could read, write, and cipher...but that was all.” Of course, that was not all. But for a man with a coconut-shaped head and messy hair, humility was a common necessity.

Delegate O’Donnell moved that the Delegate’s remarks be journalized.

The motion was adopted.
