Baltimore City - Orphans' Court Judges - Salary

This bill increases the annual salary of Baltimore City Orphans' Court associate judges from $50,000 to $55,000. The bill also increases the annual salary of the Baltimore City Orphans' Court chief judge from $60,000 to $65,000.

The salary increases take effect at the beginning of the next term of office.

Fiscal Summary

State Effect: None. The bill would not directly affect State operations or finances.

Local Effect: Expenditures by Baltimore City would increase by an estimated $11,400 (including fringe benefits) in FY 2003 due to the December 1, 2002 effective date of anticipated salary increases. Full year expenditure increases beginning in FY 2004 would be approximately $19,500.

Small Business Effect: None.

Analysis

Current Law: The associate judges for the Baltimore City Orphans' Court currently earn $50,000 annually, while the chief judge earns $60,000 annually. Compensation and allowances for an orphans' court judge are set by statute.

Background: An orphans' court is a probate court. Orphans' court judges are elected to serve four-year terms. Each county, other than Harford and Montgomery counties, has three judges sitting on its orphans' court. In Harford and Montgomery counties, circuit court judges preside in orphans' court. The chief judge of each county is appointed by the Governor. An orphans' court may establish that a will is valid, administer an estate, and direct the conduct of an executor of an estate.

The last time salaries for the Baltimore City Orphans' Court judges were increased was 1998. At that time the salary for each associate judge was raised from $45,000 annually to $50,000 annually, and the salary for the chief judge was raised from $46,000 annually to $60,000 annually.

The salaries for orphans' court judges vary greatly across the State. The salary provisions in State law are set forth below:
