Analysis

Current Law: Campaign reports filed under the State Election Code do not require contributor identity information. The language of this bill, however, is similar to the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1976, which requires political committees to file periodic reports containing contributor identifying information. This Act does not apply to State elections.

Additional Information

Prior Introductions: Similar bills, SB 339 and its cross file HB 912, were introduced in the 2002 session. SB 339 was not reported from the Senate Education, Health, and Environmental Affairs Committee and HB 912 received an unfavorable report from the House Commerce and Government Matters Committee.

Cross File: SB 259 (Senator Pinsky, et al.) – Education, Health, and Environmental Affairs.
