The bill's penalty provisions are not expected to have a significant effect on local finances or operations.

Analysis

Bill Summary: The Prince George's County Department of Environmental Resources is authorized to issue a permit for a charitable gaming event to an applicant that meets specified requirements. These requirements include that the organization be located and active within the county for at least two years prior to a gaming application. The Prince

George's County Council is authorized to impose a tax to be used for public education purposes of up to 20% of the gross proceeds of charitable gaming events.

The bill provides for the application process, establishes a $150 permit fee for each charitable gaming event, and limits the number of permits that may be authorized to 21 and the number of gaming events that may be held by any one permittee is limited to one per month.

The Prince George's County Sheriff will enforce the operation of all gaming events, and the cost of enforcement ($28 per hour per each gaming event) must be paid by each permittee. Although a person may not receive compensation from the gross proceeds of a charity gaming event, the sponsor may pool tips and gratuities from gaming patrons and distribute the proceeds to workers. Also, the bill provides for civil and criminal penalties for violations of the bill.

Current Law: Charitable gaming events are prohibited in Prince George's County.

Background: Authorization for casino nights in Prince George's County terminated on May 25, 1997. From 1995 to 1997, Prince George's County levied a tax of up to 20% on the gross proceeds of charitable gaming events in the county.

Local Fiscal Effect: Local government revenues and expenditures could increase by an indeterminate amount. The amount of any revenue or expenditure increase depends on the numbers of organizations that apply for gaming permits and the proceeds generated from these events.

Enforcement costs are to be paid by permittees to the Sheriff's Office. Increased education expenditures depend on the proceeds of gaming events.

Prince George's County collected $4.5 million in fiscal 1996 and $3.8 million in fiscal 1997 from the tax on gaming night proceeds.

The county Sheriff's Office regulated casino nights through the Casino Enforcement Bureau. The bureau had a budget of approximately $761,000 in fiscal 1997, which included 17 full-time positions.
