Analysis

Current Law/Background: State law does not specifically indicate that a county board of license commissioners is a State agency. However, State law (Article 2B, 15-108) does provide that the Garrett County Liquor Control Board is a State agency.

Despite the lack of a specific statutory provision asserting that a board of license commissioners is a State agency, there is evidence that the boards are considered State agencies. As discussed above, State law specifically identifies the Garrett County Liquor Control Board as a State agency, which, despite its name, functions as a board of license commissioners. The Maryland Tort Claims Act defines State personnel, in part, to mean a member of a board of license commissioners of a county. Additionally, an Attorney General's Opinion, 64 Op. Att'y Gen. 151, 155 (1979), concluded that members of a board of license commissioners are officers in the Executive Branch of State government.
