Analysis

Current Law: A principal political party must elect members of a county central committee at a primary election. The composition of the Republican central committees for six counties and Baltimore City are statutorily specified, including that for Baltimore County. The committees in the remaining counties are composed according to each committee's constitution. With the exception of Baltimore County's Republican Central Committee, in which the chairman is elected at large, local central committees select a chairman.

Background: The Baltimore County Republican Central Committee is comprised of 28 members elected from seven councilmanic districts, and a chairman elected at large. There are eight legislative districts in the county.
