10. Description and Purpose of Grantee Organization (3000 characters maximum)

Built in 1793, the Flag House is the site where Mary Young Pickersgill, a widow, operated her flagmaking business and constructed the 30 x 42 foot flag that flew over Fort McHenry during the War of 1812 and inspired Francis Scott Key to pen the words that would one day become our national anthem. Pickersgill's home and the adjacent Star-Spangled Banner Museum stand as a tribute to the patriotic devotion of the women and men who built our nation. Since 1927, hundreds of thousands of visitors have toured this significant historic site, and preservation repairs to the Flag House are imperative to the landmark's ability to support future visitation and share the story behind the making and flying of the Star-Spangled Banner. The mission of the Flag House and Star-Spangled Banner Museum is to tell the widest audience possible the stories of Mary Pickersgill, the making of the Star-Spangled Banner and the War of 1812 in an engaging, dynamic manner that allows the visitor to connect to that history. This is accomplished by education, interpretation, conservation, preservation and research. The Flag House and The Star-Spangled Banner Museum houses a diverse collection of furniture, textiles, military objects, photographs, and clothing, from the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries. A permanent feature of the museum is the Great Flag Window, a 30 X 42 foot glass flag that is the same size, and design as the original Star-Spangled Banner. Designated a National Historic Landmark in 1972, today the Flag House stands as a true symbol of American freedom, ingenuity, and courage.

The Flag House serves approximately 14,000 people annually, 12,500 on site. The majority (56%) are from Maryland. The remaining 44% come from all fifty states, and thirty-seven foreign countries. Traditionally, most of the museum's resources have been focused on school programming. Almost half of the museum's audience is made up of student groups, both local and visiting from around the country. The museum offers a suite of school programs that are developmentally appropriate and offer diverse curriculum connections for teachers and students. Annual public programs have included the Star-Spangled Banner Singing Contest, Defenders Day Celebration, The Flag Day Ceremony, the Flag Symposium, the Spring Historical Lecture Series, and the Blues to Bluegrass Concert Series. On Saturdays, the museum presents HistoryALIVE, which utilizes living history interpretation as a key means to introduce family groups to the dynamics of life for Baltimore's earliest citizens. Through lively dialogue, first-hand examination of rare material culture, and participation in research-based domestic activities, visitors gain a better understanding of Baltimore's formative years and the women and men who built and defended our nation.

11. Description and Purpose of Project (3000 characters maximum)

2007 is a very special year for the Flag House, marking the 80th Anniversary of the opening of the museum and the 200th Anniversary of Mary Pickersgill's move to Baltimore and into the now historic Flag House. It is also begins, a five year count down to Maryland's celebration of the Bicentennial of the War of 1812. To prepare for this statewide celebration, the Flag House is seeking funds to complete the Flag House preservation project, implement major capital improvements to the Flag House's campus as a whole, and, finally, to develop new core exhibitions and a Hand-On History Center that evoke the importance of the War of 1812 and what the war meant to the forming of the United States of America.

Through this project, two essential needs will be addressed:

1. The Flag House's grounds will be redesigned for leisure and special events and the marvelous stone map, designed by Arthur Sewall, of the United States will be restored.
2. The original 1953 museum building will be transformed into a Hands-On History Center and with an adjoining small café. The Hands-On History Center will be designed specifically for children up to age 8, who demand a more tactile and experiential learning environment. In keeping with the feel of a children's museum, the space will have thematic, exploratory exhibitions and employ play as an essential learning tool for early learners and young children. The space will also serve as a meeting place for after-school programs targeted for at-risk youth in the surrounding communities. Currently, the space is not ADA compliant and the project will focus on addressing this issue.
