Analysis

Current Law: A government-owned and operated dental facility or public health department in which a dental hygienist is authorized to practice under a licensed dentist's general supervision must ensure that the facility's supervising dentist and each dental hygienist hold an active general license to practice in Maryland; hold a current CPR certificate; and have at least two years of active clinical practice in direct patient care.

Before a dental hygienist practicing under a licensed dentist's general supervision can initially treat a patient, the supervising dentist, the patient's dentist, or the treating physician must evaluate the patient's medical history and determine its impact on the patient's suitability to receive oral health treatment. The supervising dentist must diagnose the patient and approve the patient's treatment plan and authorize, on a patient-by-patient basis, a dental hygienist to practice under the licensed dentist's general supervision.

A dental hygienist practicing under a licensed dentist's general supervision must determine before treating a recall patient that there has been no change in the patient's medical history. If a patient's medical history has changed, the dental hygienist must consult with the supervising dentist, the patient's dentist, or a treating physician before proceeding with treatment. A recall patient must be scheduled for an oral examination every six months, or as otherwise recommended by the supervising dentist.

Additionally, the facility must have a medical emergency plan and must have adequate facilities and equipment available for delivering dental hygiene services other than fluoride rinse programs.

Other provisions apply to supervised practice in a private dental office.

Background: There are 2,712 active licensed dental hygienists in Maryland.
