Analysis

Bill Summary: The bill authorizes an official of the federal, State, or local government charged with serving a criminal arrest warrant to certify to the Comptroller that an individual who is either a Maryland resident or who receives income from Maryland has an outstanding warrant and to request the Comptroller to withhold the income tax refund of the individual. This certification must include (1) the full name and address of the individual and any other known names of the individual; (2) the Social Security number or federal tax identification number; and (3) a statement that the warrant is outstanding. Warrants include those issued for (1) a failure to appear before a State court; (2) probation violations; or (3) a violation of a motor vehicle law punishable by a term of confinement. Warrants do not include body attachments issued for material witnesses.

For any individual for which a certification of an outstanding warrant is received, the Comptroller is required to withhold the individual's income tax refund and notify the individual of the certification of an outstanding warrant. The Comptroller may not withhold a refund if the individual is an active duty member of the U.S. Armed Forces or files a joint income tax return.

Before withholding any part of a refund as provided by the bill, the Comptroller's Office must, as required under current law, remit to the Department of Human Resources (DHR) the refund of an individual who is certified to be in arrears for child support payments.

The bill applies only to individuals who are residents of Anne Arundel County or have an outstanding warrant from Anne Arundel County.

The Comptroller's Office is required to report to the House Ways and Means Committee and the Senate Budget and Taxation Committee on implementation of the program by December 1, 2012.

Current Law: The Comptroller's Office currently operates several tax compliance programs which intercept the tax refund of an individual, including (1) tax clearance for business licenses, which applies to about 550,000 licensees and has recently generated a total of $6.8 million in annual revenue; (2) the IRS vendor payment program, which generated $11.4 million from 7,185 interceptions in calendar 2010; and (3) the IRS refund offset program, which generated $39.4 million from 49,203 interceptions out of an estimated 2.2 million Maryland federal tax returns owed a refund in calendar 2010.

The State also operates several intercept programs to collect delinquent child support payments, including the interception of tax refunds, lottery prizes, and vendor payments. DHR is authorized to certify under certain conditions unpaid child support debts of more than $150 to the State Lottery Agency and the Comptroller's Office. The Comptroller's

Office and State Lottery Agency are required to remit to DHR the payment or refund up to the amount of arrearage of an obligor certified as being in arrears. Licensed lottery agents may not pay a prize over $600 if the holder of a winning lottery ticket has been certified as having a child support debt.

State Fiscal Effect: The Comptroller's Office is required to withhold the income tax return of an individual who is certified as having an outstanding warrant. The Sheriff of Anne Arundel County advises that there are currently 8,302 outstanding warrants. Additional revenue impacts will occur to the extent the Comptroller's Office receives certification from the State Police or federal officials for warrants for Anne Arundel County residents.

The Comptroller's Office is currently required to withhold the refund of an individual who is certified to be in arrears for child support payments. This bill is not expected to materially impact child support collections.

The Comptroller's Office advises it will incur notification expenses of $1,500 in fiscal 2012 in order to inform an individual that their refund is being withheld.
