This emergency bill prohibits a person from selling, manufacturing, possessing, or distributing “synthetic cannabinoids” in Frederick County. Violators are guilty of a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment for up to one year and/or a maximum fine of $1,000. However, a person convicted of using or possessing less than 10 grams of synthetic cannabinoids is subject to imprisonment for up to 90 days and/or a maximum fine of $500.

Fiscal Summary

State Effect: Potential minimal increase in general fund revenues and expenditures to the extent that the bill results in additional fines in District Court cases and additional or longer incarcerations in State correctional facilities.

Local Effect: Potential minimal increase in local expenditures to the extent that the bill results in additional fines in circuit court cases and additional or longer incarcerations in local correctional facilities.

Small Business Effect: Potential minimal loss of revenue for small businesses in Frederick County that sell substances that are currently legal under State law but would be illegal under the bill.

Analysis

Bill Summary: The bill defines “synthetic cannabinoids” as a material, compound, mixture, or preparation that (1) is not listed as a controlled dangerous substance in Schedules I through V; (2) is not a drug approved by the Food and Drug Administration; and (3) contains a quantity of several specified substances, their salts, isomers, homologues (analogs), and salts of isomers and homologues (analogs), unless specifically excepted, whenever the existence of these salts, isomers, homologues (analogs), and salts of isomers and homologues (analogs), is possible within the specific chemical designation.

“Synthetic cannabinoids” also includes any other synthetic chemical compound that is a cannabinoids receptor agonist and mimics the pharmacological effect of naturally occurring cannabinoids that is not listed in Scheduled II through V or is not a drug approved by the Food and Drug Administration.

Current Law: Controlled dangerous substances are listed on one of five schedules (Schedules I through V) set forth in statute depending on their potential for abuse and acceptance for medical use. Under the federal Controlled Dangerous Substances Act, for a drug or substance to be classified as Schedule I, the following findings must be made: (1) the substance has a high potential for abuse; (2) the drug or other substance has no currently accepted medical use in the United States; and (3) there is a lack of accepted safety for use of the drug or other substance under medical supervision.

No distinction is made in the law regarding the illegal possession of any controlled dangerous substance, regardless of which schedule it is on, with the exception of marijuana.

In general, a defendant in possession of marijuana is guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to imprisonment for up to one year and/or a fine of up to $1,000. However, pursuant to Chapters 193 and 194 of 2012 (SB 214/HB 350), a person in possession of less than 10 grams of marijuana is subject to a reduced penalty of imprisonment for up to 90 days and/or a maximum fine of $500.

The use or possession of less than 10 grams of marijuana may not be considered a lesser included crime of any other crime unless specifically charged by the State. If a person is convicted of possessing less than 10 grams of marijuana, the court must stay any imposed sentence that includes an unserved, nonsuspended period of imprisonment without requiring an appeal bond (1) until the time for filing an appeal has expired and (2) during the pendency of a filed appeal of the conviction.

If the court finds that the defendant used or possessed marijuana out of medical necessity, the maximum punishment is a $100 fine. An affirmative defense is available to defendants for use or possession of marijuana or related paraphernalia due to a debilitating medical condition.

The use or possession of a controlled dangerous substance other than marijuana is a misdemeanor with maximum criminal penalties of four years imprisonment and/or a $25,000 fine.

For information on additional primary crimes involving controlled dangerous substances, please refer to the Appendix – Primary Crimes Involving Controlled Dangerous Substances.

Background: Cannabimimetic agents, also referred to as “synthetic marijuana” or “synthetic cannabinoids,” are chemical substances that are not derived from the marijuana plant but are designed to affect the body in ways similar to THC, the primary psychoactive ingredient in marijuana. Synthetic cannabinoids are typically sprayed onto plant material and marketed under names such as “Spice” or “K2.” The popularity and availability of these substances has grown in recent years, and criminal enforcement of the sale and possession of these substances has been challenging, since manufacturers can elude legal bans on products by making slight changes to their chemical structures.

On July 9, 2012, President Obama signed the Synthetic Drug Abuse Prevention Act of 2012 (SDAPA). SDAPA placed 26 substances in the federal list of Schedule I controlled dangerous substances, including several of the substances specified in this bill. SDAPA also created a new definition of “cannabimimetic agents” with criteria by which similar chemical compounds are controlled.

Under Maryland law, if the federal government places a substance on Schedule I, it is automatically considered a Schedule I substance in the State unless the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) objects to the designation. Since DHMH has not raised an objection, several of the substances encompassed by this bill are illegal in Maryland.

According to the National Conference of State Legislatures, as of November 28, 2012, 41 states and Puerto Rico have enacted legislation to ban synthetic cannabinoids.

According to DHMH, the Maryland Poison Control Center received 159 calls related to synthetic cannabinoids during the first eight months of 2012, compared to 151 calls in calendar 2011. The calls came from 20 of Maryland’s 24 jurisdictions. A majority of the calls involved individuals age 19 or younger.
