The Robert W Johnson Community Center (RWJCC) is the core and heart of the historic Jonathan Street Community. It is a safe location that hosts children after school and during summer breaks, a location that engages local senior citizens to meet weekly to socialize and learn. It offers a place for two small churches to meet and worship. It serves as a regular and needed location for three Narcotics Anonymous groups to meet and fellowship. RWJCC hosts a monthly food drop with the Maryland food bank and hosts a city-wide, free, community Thanksgiving Dinner every year. In addition to these constants, RWJCC also offers families and community members a location to come together to celebrate life activities and to honor those great lives that we must mourn.

28. Comments
The Robert W Johnson Community Center (RWJCC) has been the nucleus of this historic black Jonathan Street community since Reconstruction and it has lacked resources and capital improvement for many years. The pandemic highlighted the deficiencies of the deteriorating infrastructure when the community needed its resources the most. This former red-lined community suffers from high poverty rates, being in a food desert, low home-ownership rates, and decimation of its historic assets such as the demolition of two Green Book sites (the Harmon Hotel, Ships Tea Room). The Jonathan Street community cannot afford to lose this landmark (RWJCC) that has such importance to the community historically, culturally, and socially. The Jonathan Street community is in the midst of revitalization that began with the rehabilitation of a nationally recognized log cabin within walking distance to the Community Center and RWJCC has recently received a Rural Broadband grant from the MD Department of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) that will expand its capacity for programming for the community. Also, RWJCC has an MOU with Preservation Maryland and the Western Maryland Community Development Corporation to help build its capacity to utilize bond funding and grants received in a timely and efficient manner. Through a grant from DHCD, a conditions assessment of RWJCC is currently underway. Here is the timeline: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> -Preservation MD/MTFA Architecture: Condition Assessments Schedule Field Assessment March 2nd -Submission of Draft Report April 19th -Draft Review Meeting (Virtual) May 5th, Comments due by May 3rd -Submission of Final report May 26th -Report Presentation (In-person) June 10th Upon completion of the Conditions Assessment the RWJCC Board of directors will prioritize the capital improvements of the Community Center and with the assistance of Preservation Maryland deploy any previous and forthcoming funding received to begin the much-needed upgrades. Building a stronger Jonathan Street community begins with providing the community a safe environment to access resources to strengthen families and the RWJCC is committed to securing funding to ensure a brighter future for all its residents and beyond.
