Analysis

Current Law: Maryland law provides a pension exclusion (in the form of a subtraction modification) for individuals who are at least 65 years old or who are totally disabled.

Under this subtraction modification, up to a specified maximum amount of taxable pension income ($34,300 in 2021) may be exempt from tax. The maximum exclusion allowed is indexed to the maximum annual benefit payable under the Social Security Act and is reduced by the amount of any Social Security payments received (Social Security offset).

Additional retirement income may be exempted if the individual has qualified U.S. military, law enforcement, correctional officer, fire, rescue, or emergency services personnel retirement income.

Social Security benefits are exempt from Maryland income tax even though benefits are partially taxable for federal purposes.

In addition to the special treatment of Social Security and other retirement income, additional income tax relief is provided to senior citizens regardless of the source of their income. Each individual age 65 and older is allowed a $1,000 personal exemption in addition to the regular personal exemption allowed for all individuals.

State Revenues: The bill creates beginning in tax year 2022 a subtraction modification against the State income tax for an individual who is at least 100 years of age. According to the Comptroller's Office, in tax year 2018 a total of 850 taxpayers who were at least 100 years of age filed a tax return, of whom 410 will benefit from the proposed subtraction modification. As a result, State income tax revenues will decrease by about $688,000 annually beginning in fiscal 2023.

State Expenditures: The Comptroller's Office reports that it will incur a one-time general fund expenditure increase of $65,000 in fiscal 2023 to add the subtraction modification to the personal income tax forms. This includes data processing changes to the income tax return processing and imaging systems and systems testing.

Local Revenues: Local income tax revenues decrease as a result of additional income exempted against the personal income tax. Local revenues decrease by about $438,000 annually beginning in fiscal 2023.
