Analysis

Current Law: Generally, "newspaper" or "newspaper in general circulation" used in the context of publishing a legal advertisement or legal notice means a publication that:

- has at least four pages;
- habitually contains news items, reports of current events, editorial comments, advertising matter, and other miscellaneous information that is of public interest and is found generally in an ordinary newspaper;
- has been published and distributed, by sale, from an established place of business at least once a week for six months or more before publication of the advertisement or notice;

- has general circulation throughout the community where the publication is published; and
- qualifies for periodicals rates for mailing through the U.S. Postal Service.

In Prince George's County, newspaper in general circulation includes (1) a newspaper that is designated by the county council as a newspaper of record or (2) a newspaper that otherwise meets the general definition above and is published by a small business as defined in the State Finance and Procurement Article.
