To whom this may concern,

As a new technology startup company located in Baltimore City we rely heavily on University of Maryland Baltimore County (UMBC) students. These students do not all have their own means of transportation and we have found that it is very difficult and time consuming to use public transport to navigate the city. Recently due to the lack of effective public transportation it became necessary for us to move closer to a UMBC shuttle drop point to limit the commute time of our employees who use the UMBC shuttle and busses to under an hour. Therefore, I do believe that Baltimore City has a lack of effective public transportation and support efforts to create a more effective public transportation system.

Sincerely,

Adam R. Boteler
