Re: Support House Bill 840 – Joint Committee on Workforce Development

IEC Chesapeake supports House Bill (HB) 840 and requests a favorable report. IEC Chesapeake has an extensive apprenticeship training program to develop skilled electricians. There is, and will continue to be, a severe shortage of workers in the skilled trades. HB840 will establish a joint legislative committee which will among other things examine apprenticeship programs and the use of workforce training funds. HB840 requires an annual report to the Governor and General Assembly. This annual report will provide the blueprint for any future legislative or regulatory changes in the area of workforce development.

Independent Electrical Contractors (IEC) Chesapeake represents members throughout Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, Pennsylvania, and Washington, D.C. Our headquarters are located in Laurel, Maryland. IEC Chesapeake has an extensive apprenticeship program for training electricians. In addition, IEC Chesapeake promotes green economic growth by providing education and working with contractor members, industry partners, government policy makers and inspectors to increase the use of renewable energy.
