The Maryland Judiciary opposes Senate Bill 763 as drafted. This proposed legislation would require the State Board of Physicians (hereafter “the Board”) to establish a state licensing program for genetic counselors. The bill identifies criteria for issuing, denying, or revoking a license, and it outlines a hearing process to be followed by the Board. The bill indicates that anyone aggrieved by a final decision of the Board may petition for judicial review, and the bill indicates that the board may appeal any decision that reverses or modifies a Board action. The bill establishes criminal and civil penalties for practicing genetic counseling without a license.

The Judiciary is concerned that the bill’s procedures for judicial appeals of Board decisions, as described in the bill at Health Occupations Article, § 14-5G-19, are unclear or are contradictory with existing law. Specifically, the bill provides that an appeal “shall be made as provided for judicial review of final decisions in Title 10, Subtitle 2 of the State Government Article.” State Government Article § 10-222(e) allows a court to stay a final decision as the “court considers proper” but the bill states that a stay may not be granted pending judicial review. Also, at § 14-5G-19(c), the bill states that the “Board may appeal from any decision that reverses or modifies its order” but the bill does not say whether another party that is aggrieved by a final decision of the circuit court may appeal. These procedures need clarification so that they can be applied appropriately by courts.
