Kratom has helped me tremendously. I was hooked on pain pills right after graduating high school after struggling with that for several years I ended up having a bad wreck where I broke both hips and tailbone along with breaking my right arm and breaking my right wrist. I had to have surgery on both hips and right wrist. I also had massive lacerations on top of my head and forehead. I was bed bound for 10 months and had to learn to walk again. So, after my wreck I actually needed the pills because of the pain. After healing from that I was still on opiates but this time getting the prescribed but if take all them and end up buying the off the street again. About 2 years ago I tried kratom and it helped me a lot. It helped my pain tremendously. Also helped my mood and energy levels. I ended up getting off the opiates by using kratom almost immediately after trying kratom. It has been a wonderful help for me. I'm afraid I might end up on opiates again if they ban it. If be right back where I started, and I've come along way with the help of this leaf. I'm so thankful for it.
