HB 151– Law Enforcement Officers’ Bill of Rights – Repeal

FAVORABLE

To Chairman Clippinger, Vice-Chair Atterbeary, and Committee members,

My name is Beth MacKenzie and I live in Cheverly, Maryland. I am testifying in support of HB 151 to repeal the Law Enforcement Officers’ Bill of Rights (“LEOBR”) and create a streamlined system without the procedural barriers that prevent discipline. This bill is about racial justice and holding officers accountable for the violence, abuse, and trauma they inflict on the community, mostly Black and Brown residents.

As a former municipal elected official, I know first hand the challenges that LEOBR creates when it comes to transparency and accountability for our law enforcement officers. Repealing LEOBR and replacing it with transparent accountability processes would provide our communities the opportunity to seek and receive answers and accountability in cases of police misconduct.

As you know, Maryland was the first state to create this type of law, and Maryland’s LEOBR is considered to be the most extreme in the country. LEOBR protects officers from accountability by giving them special due process rights that go beyond what is required under the Constitution. For instance, there is no reason why complaints need to go through a hearing board process before officers can be disciplined. As a result of LEOBR’s extra rights, only a few officers receive any discipline at all. In the vast majority of incidents of violence and misconduct, the officer receives no discipline and is not held accountable. LEOBR also allows police chiefs to escape accountability because they can say that it was the hearing board that made the decision, not them so their “hands are tied”. This is why it is so important to have a transparent and streamlined discipline process that allows for us to know exactly who is responsible for holding officers accountable.

I believe that officers should have the same rights and not be treated differently than any other state or local employee, especially since officers have so much power in the community – literally making life or death decisions. They should not be given extra rights.

Maryland must also ensure that when LEOBR is repealed, local jurisdictions cannot just recreate LEOBR at the local level. That is why it is important that this bill prohibits local laws and collective bargaining agreements that conflict with the due process rights and procedures laid out in the bill.

HB 151 is a necessary bill so that Maryland finally stops shielding officers from accountability. Now is the time for a full repeal of LEOBR. I urge a favorable vote on HB 151.
