

Bill:House Bill 0751Title:State Personnel -
Collective BargainingDate:February 15th, 2022Committee:House AppropriationsPosition:SUPPORT

Executive Summary:

- A. Problems have persisted across generations of graduate students, legislators, and administrators (p. 2).
 - Over the last 20 years there have been numerous attempts to reverse the 2001 ban.
 - Minimum stipends have hardly increased during that time.
 - UMCP data shows the pervasiveness of issues facing graduate employees.

B. The meet and confer process is not working (p. 5).

• Despite the best efforts of graduate employee leaders, university administration has been largely unresponsive to graduate employee concerns and issues.

C. Minimum stipends at the University of Maryland are below the cost of attendance (CoA), and the University does not stack up well against our peer schools (p. 8).

- Over the academic year, a graduate assistant who is paid the minimum stipend will face a shortfall of over $4,200 relative to the estimated CoA, after taxes and mandatory fees. For the full-year, the deficit rises to almost $12,000.
- The cost-of-attendance estimate is biased low, and will increase this year following a revision. Third-party cost-of-living estimates put the full-year deficit to be almost $15,000 for a GA paid the minimum stipend.
- Among Big Ten schools, UMCP has the greatest discrepancy between required cost-of-living and graduate stipends.
- UMCP's minimum stipend is below that of many Big Ten and peer schools.
- More than half of Big Ten schools are unionized.

D. Collective bargaining does not harm, and in fact benefits, the educational atmosphere with negligible economic impact. (p. 11).

• Peer-reviewed research suggests graduate student unionization actually improves the educational atmosphere and shows that economic concerns are often "overstated."

E. Graduate employees have been disproportionately affected by COVID-19 (p. 13).

- Existing power imbalances and financial vulnerability have forced graduate employees to assume extra burdens and dangerous working conditions.
- Graduate employees have been made to feel precarious and to suffer undue anxiety.

Inquiries for further data or questions can be directed to fearlessstudentemployees@gmail.com.

• These outcomes have been caused by the poor supervision and administration which would have been remedied through a clear, enforceable contract.

F. There is broad, continuously expressed support among graduate employees (p. 16).

• Thousands of graduate employees, faculty, and campus groups across USM institutions have advocated for the legalization of collective bargaining rights for the last several years.

Problems have persisted across generations of graduate students, legislators, and administrators.

Numerous bills have been introduced to deal with graduate employee collective bargaining over the last twenty years:

2000: HB 1361 2001: HB 300 / SB 207 — Ban on grad employees collective bargaining enters statute 2002: HB 604 2008: HB 538 / SB 617 2012: HB 972 / SB 859 2017: HB 1250 2018: HB 199 / SB 560 2019: HB 270 / SB 491 2020: HB 214 / SB 658 2021: SB 521

The minimum annual stipend a department might pay its graduate employees for a standard position has increased, but barely—and after stagnating for four years:

2013: $15,067.00	 2017: $16,144.00 (no change)	2021: $18,979.00
2014: $15,675.00	 2018: $16,144.00 (no change)	2022: $21,000.00
2015: $16,144.00	2019: $17,455.00
2016: $16,144.00 (no change)	2020: $18,791.00

University committees, surveys, and other data consistently demonstrate the pervasiveness of issues facing graduate employees:

• Unlivable wages:

• In 2010, the Workgroup "on the status of graduate assistants and adjunct faculty in Maryland's state higher education institutions" concluded that "graduate students addressing the Workgroup expressed the concern that stipends are low, relative to the cost of living in Maryland. They also cited economic concerns, the financial uncertainty that arises without multi-year assistantship commitments, and the dearth of affordable graduate student housing (9)."

- In 2016, UMCP GAAC surveyed and found 69% of respondents said their salary is not enough to support themselves.
- In 2016, the Graduate School Review Committee determined that "graduate students often feel overworked and undercompensated, and that the University does not provide enough mechanisms to address their concerns (though the new Statement of Mutual Expectations for Graduate Assistants and Faculty Supervisors is a step in the right direction). Appropriate financial support and expectations are crucial for allowing graduate students to focus on their academics, and can enhance recruitment, particularly for the highest quality students and those from disadvantaged backgrounds.
- In 2017, the Graduate School's Quality of Life Survey showed that the top reason why graduate students would NOT recommend UMCP to prospective students was financial issues/concerns. Financial issues were the top reason why graduate students and employees felt unsupported by the university.
- In 2021, costs of living dramatically increased in the university area due to inflation. The administration raised the minimum GA wages as a response, but the minimum stipend is still far behind the university's estimated cost-of-attendance (which will increase following a revision this year). Using an established third-party cost-of-living calculator, the gap between stipends and cost of living is dramatically larger at UMD CP than any other big ten flagships.

In addition, two surveys conducted by GAAC have accumulated over 400 GA complaints about financial difficulties, including dozens from GAs who experienced food insecurity, were forced to rely on SNAP benefits, or were homeless during periods of their employment. Some have highlighted that over 75% of their pay is going towards paying their graduate housing rent.

• Unregulated hours:

- In 2006, a survey at UMCP found that 36% of respondent Teaching Assistants asserted that they worked more than the maximum allowed by Graduate School policies (20; 10 of Workgroup report)
- In 2010, UMCP told the Workgroup it "believes that it has solved this significant workload inequity (10)."
- In 2016, UMCP GAAC found 20% of respondents said they could not complete the requirements of their assistantship within the policy-limited time, and that the average number of hours worked (22.56) exceeded the maximum allowed by Graduate School policies (20).
- In 2017, UMCP GAAC surveyed and found that the average number of hours worked (27.11) exceeded the maximum allowed by Graduate School policies (20).
- In 2017, the Graduate School's Quality of Life Survey found significant dissatisfaction with overwhelming assistantship workloads, particularly given the comparatively low stipends.

- In 2020, the Graduate School facilitated a study by Dr. Liana Sayer, which suggested a vast range between colleges, with some colleges' graduate employees working nearly twice as many hours as other colleges' employees while doing similar work.
- In 2021, UMCP GAAC received over a hundred complaints about uneven work hours. Some common threads were that many GAs are working 40-50 hours per week and only being compensated for 20, and that it's difficult to balance coursework and paid work. In one survey, when asked how much faster they would advance towards their degrees if their GA workload were cut in half, 46.8% of GAs said they would advance 1.5 to 2.0 times faster, and some reported that their GA duties are in direct conflict with the completion of their degree.

• Issues with supervisors:

- In 2010, graduate employees conveyed that grievance procedures "leave the complaining student vulnerable to retaliation from the student's supervisor or mentor (11)."
- In 2016, UMCP surveyed and found 22.8% of respondents would not be comfortable approaching their advisor/supervisor about a problem.
- In 2017, the Graduate School's Quality of Life Survey found that many graduate students felt unsupported by program faculty and their advisors. Some even reported issues with faculty engaging in sexism, harassment, and exploitation. Issues with faculty were frequently reported as a reason why graduate students would not recommend UMCP to prospective students.
- In 2019, the Graduate School policies make a "first attempt to resolve the difficulty by discussing the situation with [our] faculty advisor/supervisor as expeditiously as possible."

• Inadequate policies:

- In 2010, graduate students complained that "informal, department-based processes are inadequate" to resolve issues (11).
- In 2016, UMCP surveyed and found that 41.1% of respondents were either neutral, or felt insufficiently protected by Graduate School policies.
- In 2017, the Graduate School's Quality of Life survey showed that respondents felt that graduate students and employees were devalued by their programs and the University, citing a lack of policies, programs, and resources that support graduate student life.
- In 2019, our current grievance policy states, "the GA should attempt to resolve these matters locally, collegially, and informally."
- In 2019, the Graduate School found that 27% of graduate employees did not have their required mutual-expectations meeting with their direct supervisor, and Dean Steve Fetter said, "the[se] results were positive" in an email to stakeholders.
- In 2021, UMCP GAAC received over fifty bigotry, harrassment, and discrimination complaints via surveys and individual letters. Many GAs have reported bullying and abuse from their immediate supervisors. GAAC found that the existing practice of placing responsibility of negotiating expectations with their supervisors on GAs after their appointment letters have been signed results in abuses of power, but the claim has been dismissed by the university administration. GAAC also received over a dozen complaints about inadequate family support. Currently, the University doesn't have a parental leave policy in place for GAs, who have children to take care of much more often than in earlier times.

Lack of communication:

- In 2010, the Workgroup advised that, "Strong channels of communication must exist on every campus to encourage the open exchange of information and discussion of concerns between graduate assistants, faculty and administrators (14)."
- In 2016, the Graduate School Review Committee determined the Graduate School must "improve communication about policies and services to faculty, staff and students."
- In 2017, the Graduate School's Quality of Life Survey showed widespread dissatisfaction with communication between the university and the graduate community, and individual programs and their students. The survey showed concern about the consistent "lack of transparency" in decision-making.
- In 2018, UMCP GAAC asked Dean Steve Fetter to communicate better and he responded, "students and faculty share responsibility for being informed, and helping to inform others."
- In 2020 through 2021, UMCP GAAC received numerous complaints from GAs about inadequate communication on policy related to the COVID pandemic. GAs being both students and employees, in many cases the administration did not make it clear which of the two sets of policies applies to them.

• Failure of shared governance:

- In 2010, the Workgroup was unsure "whether campus shared governance policies, processes, and practices...are adequate to resolve concerns of graduate assistants (13)."
- In 2016, the Graduate School Review Committee determined the Graduate School had failed to "engage graduate faculty, students, DGSs and Coordinators, and other core constituencies on an ongoing basis in discussions of major issues in graduate education (e.g., time to degree)."
- In 2017, findings from the Graduate School's Quality of Life Survey showed that "lack of voice" was a significant concern for graduate students and employees. Many felt that they had no way of addressing issues in their academic programs, workplaces, or at the University in general.

Illustrative exchanges from two GAAC meetings:

Regarding issues with the offer letters admitted students receive:

GAAC asked: can the Graduate School "audit offer letters to ensure they aren't making promises that violate Grad School policies?"

They responded: "The Graduate School does not have the resources to review individual offer letters for 4,400 graduate assistants. Moreover, offers are often done via email or verbally, without formal documentation."

Regarding the lack of progress on gathering background data:

GAAC said: "The Grad School lacks a comprehensive, quantitative and qualitative, understanding of the condition of graduate employees. GAAC has attempted to gather this data, the grad school has generally not, and GAAC's numbers and qualitative data are often called into question." (5/3/18)

They responded: "I invite GAAC to request data from the Graduate School, rather than attempt to collect it independently." (5/3/18)

Then, regarding specific requests for information:

"the Graduate School does not have the resources to develop, purchase, maintain, or support a replacement system [that tracks comprehensive graduate student information]." (5/3/18)

GAAC said: "We are concerned that you do not really know what grad employees workload is, nor how that is changing." (11/28/18)

They responded: "We will provide information on trends on the number of graduate assistants and GA stipends when a research analyst is available to do the analysis...With current student information systems, the Graduate School does not have the ability or capacity to require, collect, monitor, or store offer letters or contracts." No commitment when a research analyst will be available. (11/28/18)

Regarding Statements of Mutual Expectations:

GAAC asked: "What are you doing to make sure that the new policy language is followed, and initiated by supervisors rather than graduate employees?"

They responded: "Departments are responsible for implementing the policy. Graduate assistants share responsibility, with their supervisors, for knowing the policy and ensuring it is implemented properly."

Regarding poor salaries:

GAAC asked: "What are your next steps to bringing grad salaries in line with cost of living? They responded: "The average academic-year stipend is currently $20,023; this will increase to over $21,000 next year—equivalent to about $30 per hour. Graduate assistants also receive tuition worth up to $30,000 per year and the same health benefits that faculty and staff receive. In addition, many graduate assistants also receive supplementary fellowship funding—an average of roughly $2,000 per doctoral student. Total compensation exceeds $60,000 for a half-time, 9.5-month appointment."

Minimum stipends at the University of Maryland are below the estimated cost-of-attendance (CoA), and the University does not stack up well against our peer schools

Despite the recent increase in minimum stipends, the university's own estimate of what a graduate student should expect to pay over the academic year—the cost-of-attendance (CoA)—is greater than this amount. By the university's own numbers, graduate assistants are underpaid. This fact stands in contrast to provably false claims that members of the administration have made in public statements.

Over the academic year, a graduate assistant who is paid the minimum stipend will face a shortfall of over $4,200 relative to the estimated cost-of-attendance, after taxes and mandatory fees. For the full year, the deficit rises to almost $11,000. GAs are not guaranteed summer funding. However, if they do receive the minimum summer stipend (totalling $28,000 for the full year), they still face a deficit of over $5,200.

Furthermore, GAAC met with the director of student financial aid, who confirmed that the cost-of-attendance estimate is biased low. In addition, it will increase this year following the most recent revision. Third-party cost-of-living estimates put the full-year deficit as almost $15,000 for a GA paid the minimum stipend. Even GAs with 40 hours/week of summer funding at the highest-paying departments fall short of the CoA.

Graduate stipends at UMCP, relative to the area's estimated cost of living, are by far the lowest in the Big Ten. This cost-of-living deficit, defined as the required cost of living for the area¹ less the median salary², is over $6,700 for the academic year and $11,000 for the entire year (if we instead calculate the deficit with the minimum stipend determined by the university, it is a staggering $16,000). These findings corroborate what has been repeatedly expressed in student testimonials: graduate stipends are entirely insufficient to support workers. Tuition reimbursement does not buy groceries.³ The cost-of-living deficit is the largest in the Big Ten, irrespective of how it is calculated: either using each university's minimum stipend, the median compensation over the 9-month academic year, or the median compensation over the full year.

³ Moreover, the university considers reimbursement part of the total compensation of all graduate workers, even the majority of PhDs who have already completed coursework.

Collective bargaining does not harm, and in fact benefits, the educational atmosphere with negligible economic impact.

Selected scholarship:

Herbert, W. A., & van der Naald, J. (2020) A different set of rules? NLRB proposed rule making and student workers unionization rights. Journal of Collective Bargaining in the Academy, 11, Article 1.

This study analyses federal guidelines, 42 current collective bargaining agreements covering student workers, and the past 50 years of graduate student unionization. It concludes that graduate worker contracts have remained remarkably consistent in their ability to clearly demarcate the academic and educational obligations of universities. Furthermore it shows that the classification of graduate assistants as employees is consistent with the guidelines established by the US Bureau of Labor Statistics and argues that a revaluation of the rights and protections of graduate assistants is required in light of their increasing role in the 21st century university.

Kroeger, Teresa, Celine McNicholas, Marni Von Wilpert, and Julia Wolfe (2018) The state of graduate student employee unions. The Economic Policy Institute Report.

This report shows that, in many cases, graduate students are being asked to take on work that was once done by full-time faculty members. However, graduate students are not compensated at a commensurate rate. The research also shows that collective bargaining raises the standard of living of graduate employees.

Rogers, S. E., Eaton, A. E., & Voos, P. B. (2013). Effects of unionization on graduate student employees: Faculty-student relations, academic freedom, and pay. Industrial and Labor Relations Review, 66, 487–510.

The authors use survey data collected from unionized and non-unionized PhD students across five academic disciplines and eight public US universities to study whether unionization harms faculty-student relations and academic freedom. The authors found that unionization either has no impact or a positive impact on faculty-student mentoring relations, with unionized graduate employees reporting higher levels of personal and professional support than non-unionized graduate employees. The study also suggests that unionization could have a positive impact on academic freedom.

Hewitt, G. J. (2000). Graduate student employee collective bargaining and the educational relationship between faculty and graduate students. Journal of Collective Negotiations in the Public Sector, 29, 153–166.

This study surveyed faculty and found substantial support for unionization in higher education, as well as a strong belief that graduate assistants should be considered employees with the right to bargain to protect themselves from mistreatment. More than 90% of the respondents indicated that student bargaining did not interfere with their ability to teach or advise graduate students, and 87.9% indicated that it did not inhibit mentoring relationships.

Schenk, T. (2010, January 17). The effects of graduate-student unionization on stipends (Working Paper Series 1831975). Cambridge, MA: National Bureau of Economic Research. Retrieved from http://tomschenkjr.net/wordpress/wp-content/uploads/2009/07/eegsu.pdf

The author used data published in the Chronicles of Higher Education from 2000-2001, 2001-2002, and 2003-2004, to examine the effects of unionization on graduate employee compensation. He found that unionized teaching assistants generally have higher salaries, but not overall compensation, suggesting that higher wages might be offset by an increase in fees and a decrease in other benefits. The author also found that unionization did not increase the likelihood of health benefits, decrease inequality between departments, or improve salaries for research assistants. These findings further suggest that the financial impact of graduate-student unionization is often negligible.

Ehrenberg, R. G., Klaff, D. B., Kezsbom, A. T., & Nagowski, M. P. (2004). Collective bargaining in American higher education. In R. G. Ehrenberg (Ed.), Governing academia (pp. 209–295). Ithaca, NY: Cornell University Press.

This study used an anonymized data exchange of 29 major universities from 1996–1997 through 2000–2001. Comparing non-unionized graduate employees with graduate employees who were unionized before 1995, graduate employees who were unionized by the end of 1996, and graduate employees who were beginning in 1999. While the last group had on average the highest salaries, the authors argue that this could be explained by the fact that this group was generally located in areas with the highest cost of living. Overall, the authors on economic outcomes does not appear to be very large and that concern over graduate student unions may be overstated" (p. 230).

Julius, D. J., & Gumport, P. J. (2002). Graduate student unionization: Catalysts and consequences. Review of Higher Education, 26, 187–216.

Using interviews, archival sources and existing scholarship, this study found no evidence that unionization negatively affects student-faculty, or mentor-mentee relationships. Rather it suggests that the clarification of roles and employment policies through collective bargaining labor agreements can enhance mentoring relationships between faculty and graduate students by clearly delineating expectations and responsibilities.

Graduate employees have been disproportionately affected by the COVID-19 pandemic

No time illustrates the faults of a system or institution more than the time of a crisis. Graduate assistants have often acted as the frontline, essential workers of the University System. They have done this lacking the standard protections afforded to other state employees—protections these other employees enjoy through their collectively-bargained contracts.

We want to be quite clear: we do not believe graduate employees would have been put in harm's way, or asked to take on so much uncompensated work, if we had a collectively-bargained contract. Because we do not have that, other CONTRACTED employees and faculty have been protected during this public health crisis and we have absorbed their work and risk.

Numerous accounts from 2020-2021 graduate employees demonstrate the often-dismissive, irresponsible attitude of the University administration toward the graduate student body, both employees and student employees. Then, the 2021-2022 school year forced graduate employees back on to campus amid heightened uncertainty and dangerous conditions. Though graduate students want to be on a vibrant and working campus, the lack of collective bargaining rights meant that decisions about reopening were made without input from graduate employees.

After reviewing hundred of examples, we've groups COVID-related issues into three categories:

- 1. Existing power imbalances and financial vulnerability have forced graduate employees to assume extra burdens and dangerous working conditions.
- 2. Graduate employees have been made to feel precarious and to suffer undue anxiety.
- 3. These outcomes have been caused not by COVID, but rather by the poor supervision and administration we've been decrying for years—conditions which would have been remedied through a clear, enforceable contract.

Extra Burdens and Dangerous Working Conditions

COVID created new work for the University—reinventing classes to go online, dealing with new pressures on students, and adapting nearly every part of university life. It appears that graduate assistants are bearing the brunt of the burden. Moreover, many have been forced to work on-site, on the "front line", while their supervisors, being more senior, have been allowed to stay back in safety. And these graduate workers had to undertake these extra responsibilities and increased risk of exposure without a dime of extra pay or hazard pay of any kind. Here are a few excerpts from their stories:

"... instead of hiring another TA to help us with this teaching load, they're simply forcing us to do more work for the same lab with no increase in pay."

"... being entirely virtual last semester in fall 2020 was extraordinarily stressful and created a great deal of extra work."

"I'm not sure how proctoring for eight hours instead of one for what is supposed to be a one-hour exam can be justified."

"Covid-19 made hiring research assistants for summer field work almost impossible in 2020 and vastly increased the amount of work done by graduate students."

"Increased workload from TA assignment [was] not caused by [the] supervisor, but by the lack of hiring [of] undergraduate TAs."

"GAs are the ones continuing to carry out research, meeting with human subjects, while faculty are allowed to quarantine safely."

"I am asked to teach labs in person, during COVID. It's not the safest option, but I need the money..."

"I have continued to live with students on campus to ensure that students remain healthy and safe.... I have essentially been a frontline worker."

More Precarity and Anxiety

COVID had a devastating financial impact on many people. Loss of jobs, loss of other sources of income, and uncertainty about the future have become the norm. Graduate students are no exception. The only difference is that Graduate Assistants are the exception, when it comes to the right to collectively bargain. Thus, when financial disruptions come to the University, they can be arbitrarily passed onto graduate workers, and those workers have nowhere to turn:

"I can't afford rent in College Park on my stipend, and I no longer qualify for unemployment because of the nebulous status of GAs at UMD."

"I didn't get paid for two months and had to move in with my mother."

"If funding gets cut due to the current economic situation, I cannot claim unemployment ... [abridged] ... it is mathematically impossible for me to save money, I will starve ..."

"I have had really bad anxious and depressive episodes, and yet still am expected to continue business as usual."

"Those who did not already have a contract, including myself, were told GA positions were unlikely due to budget cuts resulting from Covid-19 impacts. I was facing the possibility of suspending my progress toward graduation if the department was unable to find a position for me."

"Every waking decision is shrouded in economic guilt. I never feel like I can afford to do anything, even though I am working all the time. I remember countless nights leaving work at midnight and being hungry, but deciding I could save money by sleeping until breakfast."

Poor Handling by Administration

The pandemic meant huge changes for everyone. Graduate students suddenly had both classes and jobs moved online. Research was interrupted and, in many cases, hasn't resumed. Many graduate students have been unable to return to campus at all. And yet, University system policies rarely made sense for, or were tailored to, the thousands of Graduate Assistants that work for them. Policies for "students" didn't address work responsibilities and it was unclear whether policies for "employees" applied.

Meanwhile, the administration gave little financial support for or guidance on how to transition to remote courses and other altered workflows. The limbo that Graduate Assistants have to deal with every day became especially acute:

"I have very little direction as to what my GA duties are ..."

"I'm paying rent in MD, even though I'm not there. All that happened because the communication I received from UMD last summer sounded like I was needed in-person."

"My work has been drastically cut due to COVID protocols for social distancing, but [neither] my advisor nor the university have been supportive."

"My supervisors ... [abridged]... suggested I buy fancy bluetooth headphones. I am working on an eight-year-old laptop ... [abridged]... We don't earn enough money to pay the rent, so we certainly don't make enough to buy $200 headphones and new laptops..."

"I TA-ed for a class, and had to go on campus to work, without much guidance about whether or not I could refuse to work in person, etc."

"...not having clear policies of how 'time away' may be handled ... creates impossible situations not just for students, but also for faculty and administrators."

There is broad, continuously expressed support among graduate employees.

Hundreds of graduate employees have submitted written testimony to the Legislature, thousands have signed petitions asking for collective bargaining rights, and dozens of campus groups and leaders have urged your support.
