

To Whom it May Concern:

I object to this bill because it opens the door to reckless sexual abuse of children by adults.

Unbeknownst to parents, under this bill children can be exploited, intimidated, and exposed to potentially dangerous medical interventions, all of which would be funded by Maryland taxpayers.

This could open the door to sexual molesters transporting underage girls from other states to have abortions to cover up their crimes of rape.

The language of the bill clearly does not protect minors but would allow for their sexual exploitation.
