SB706 / HB1301 Nonpublic Educational Programs - Children with Disabilities - Costs of Teacher Salaries

March 1, 2022

Position: SUPPORT

Sheppard Pratt thanks the Maryland General Assembly for your longstanding leadership and support of mental and behavioral health providers in Maryland. This testimony outlines the Sheppard Pratt support of SB706 / HB1301 Nonpublic Educational Programs - Children with Disabilities - Costs of Teacher Salaries. It is our hope that the Maryland General Assembly vote a favorable report on this legislation.

Sheppard Pratt operates 12 nonpublic special education schools across the state of Maryland. We serve about 650 students across six different counties throughout the State. These comprise the most vulnerable populations of students in the State including those diagnosed with Emotional Disabilities, Autism Spectrum Disorder, and Intellectual Disabilities. Many of the students served in Sheppard Pratt Schools also have co-occurring disorders. Therefore, these students have significant learning and behavioral needs. Due to their intense behavioral, therapeutic and educational challenges, these students cannot be served in a public school setting and require the highly specialized settings unique to nonpublic schools.

To effectively meet the highly specialized needs of the students served in Sheppard Pratt Schools, we must have the capacity to employ highly qualified and experienced special and general education teachers. The current disparity between public and nonpublic teacher salaries does not allow for Sheppard Pratt to pay their special and general educators a salary that aligns with their public school counterparts.

Sheppard Pratt is the largest provider of nonpublic special education in the State of Maryland. We employ over 1,000 staff members. Currently, our special education and general education teachers with a bachelor's degree are paid up to 13.6 percent less than their public school counterparts. Sheppard Pratt teachers with master's degrees are paid up to 16.8 percent less than their public school counterparts. This pay gap is evidenced by our annual teacher turnover. At Sheppard Pratt, we need to replace about 30 percent of our teaching staff annually.

Nonpublic schools are vital to the fulfillment of IDEA, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. IDEA mandates a "continuum of alternative placements to meet the needs of children with disabilities for special education and related services." Our nonpublic schools are one component in that continuum and fulfill a unique and essential role in meeting students' particular educational needs and serve an important role for Maryland to comply with the federal law regarding education for special needs students.

Sheppard Pratt

Our nonpublic schools are uniquely equipped to provide the specific, multidisciplinary, frequently intensive resources students with special needs require. The scope and depth of staff expertise afford specialized, integrated programming that goes beyond academic education and encompass the social and emotional well-being of each student. In addition to the skilled, highly trained teachers, nonpublic schools are staffed to provide other critical services such as behavior programs, crisis management and medical attention.

If this bill passes, it will allow Sheppard Pratt Schools to pay their teachers a salary aligned to the public school system in which the school is located. This bill will improve the retention and recruitment of teachers in all 12 of our nonpublic educational settings.

Consequently, Sheppard Pratt is concerned that if the bill were not to pass, our schools will continue to experience a high turnover rate and continued challenges with recruitment and retention. Thus, threatening the education continuity of this already vulnerable population of students.

Sheppard Pratt urges you to vote a favorable report on SB706 / HB1301 Nonpublic Educational Programs - Children with Disabilities - Costs of Teacher Salaries.
