

Oppose SB200

What democratic process exists over selection and duties of the medical boards? What prevents a board from deciding behind closed doors and issuing arbitrary orders that discipline legitimate providers who happen to upset the board for some reason? What measures exist for providers to protect themselves, their practices, their reputations from board decisions?

Medicine becomes increasingly monopolized by the unanimous decisions of such boards and dominating medical dogmas promoted through large medical institutions. Such institutions and their members who staff medical boards dominate all actions and decisions regarding patient care. That leaves doctors the only option of toeing the party line and leaves patients worse off without the knowledge of any additional treatment options that may exist.

Sincerely,
Mark Meyerovich
Gaithersburg, MD