

As someone who participates in this sport daily and has been injured multiple times, it has never been the fault of anyone but myself and I know that I assume this risk. These are unpredictable animals injury has never been something that any owner or trainer can stop. So why should they assume responsibility?