Good afternoon. I'm Pava Marie LaPere's grieving mother.

Thank you Chairman Clippinger, Vice Chair Bartlett, and members of the Judiciary for allowing me to speak to you.

With great difficulty, I tell you that daily I struggle to awaken. I escape reality by sleeping. Awake. I constantly seek to counter the heavy grief that clouds my reason, to halt the relentless flow of my resentment and anger.

This relentless grief ages and sickens me. I wear rings around my neck as my fingers are too thin to support them.

When I first learned of Pava's death, the words "blunt force trauma" would not leave my mind. That act ended her life?

It did. Worse, it was inflicted by a convicted criminal who should not have been on the streets to begin with. Sadly his ill intent collided with her. It was the end of a life but not the end of a legacy. The leader is gone but her strong team, from coworkers to mentors to City leaders and business and university professionals continues to work Pava's dream in safety. To allow this the growth to occur in an environment of safety.
