Position: FAVORABLE

I am submitting this testimony in strong support of SB0553 on behalf of the Maryland Legislative Coalition. The Maryland Legislative Coalition is an association of activists - individuals and grassroots groups in every district in the state. We are unpaid citizen lobbyists and our Coalition supports well over 30,000 members.

The U non-immigrant status (U visa) is set aside for victims of certain crimes who have suffered mental or physical abuse and are helpful to law enforcement or government officials in the investigation or prosecution of criminal activity. This bill broadens the criteria for application to an immigrant victim to include a rebuttable presumption that if the victim's parent, guardian, or next friend, who is assisting in the assistance requested by law enforcement has not refused or failed to provide information to law enforcement the victim's parent, guardian, or next friend is considered helpful.

The bill also reduces the time limit on the agency certifying the U Visa from 90 days to 30 days, and if the immigrant is subject to a deportation order, the time limit is reduced from 14 days to 7 day.

The U non-immigrant visa is an important program that helps correct the underreporting of crimes committed against or witnessed by our immigrant community for fear of compromising their immigration status.

We strongly support this bill and recommend a FAVORABLE report in committee.

Re: Senate Bill 553 – Victims and Witnesses – U Nonimmigrant Status –
Certification of Victim Helpfulness

Dear Senator Augustine,

I am writing to express my support for the above-referenced proposed legislation that would streamline the U-Visa process by reducing processing time for law enforcement certifications, requiring the development of protocols for petitioners with limited English proficiency and creating a rebuttable presumption of “helpfulness.” Each of these procedural changes will undoubtedly serve to enhance the U-Visa process and ultimately serve to protect victims of domestic abuse.

As Sheriff in Montgomery County, I oversee the Family Justice Center (FJC) facility that provides comprehensive support services to victims of domestic violence. The U-Visa process has served as an invaluable incentive to protect otherwise vulnerable immigrants that rely upon the FJC’s services. Given the uncertainties of the current immigration enforcement initiatives of the new Federal administration in Washington, these procedural changes in the U-Visa process should allay fears that vulnerable immigrants have about the U-Visa process by requiring an expedited certification process and also by requiring that such certifying entities provide assistance protocols for those individuals who lack English proficiency.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have any questions and thank you for your steadfast efforts in advancing this legislation.

Sincerely,

Maxwell C. Uy, Sheriff

TESTIMONY ON (SB 0553 – Victims and Witnesses - U Nonimmigrant Status - Certification of Victim Helpfulness) – POSITION: FAVORABLE

To: Chair Senator William C. Smith, Jr., Vice Chair Senator Jeff Waldstreicher, and members of the Judicial Proceedings Committee

From: Gabriel Maximilian Moreno, Esq.

Honorable Members of the Maryland General Assembly, my name is Gabriel Maximilian Moreno, Esq. I am the CEO of the Luminus Network headquartered in Columbia, Maryland, District 12, and a resident of District 13. For more than 40 years, Luminus has empowered immigrants by offering legal and social services to meet their goals. I am submitting this testimony in support of SB 0553 – Victims and Witnesses - U Nonimmigrant Status - Certification of Victim Helpfulness.

As an organization dedicated to serving immigrants and their families in Maryland, we see firsthand the urgent need for policies that protect and empower immigrant victims of crime. SB0553 strengthens the U Visa certification process, ensuring that survivors can access justice and protection without unnecessary barriers.

The U Nonimmigrant Status (U Visa) was established by Congress under the Victims of Trafficking and Violence Protection Act of 2000 to encourage undocumented crime victims to come forward without fear of deportation. It provides temporary legal status and a path to lawful permanent residency for individuals who have suffered substantial mental or physical abuse and have been helpful, or are likely to be helpful, in the detection, investigation, or prosecution of certain crimes.

The importance of the U Visa program cannot be overstated:

- Encourages Crime Reporting & Public Safety: Studies show that undocumented immigrants are significantly less likely to report crimes due to fear of deportation. A 2019 study published in the American Journal of Public Health found that over 45% of Latinos reported being less willing to call the police if they were victims of a crime due to immigration fears. By strengthening the U Visa process, SB0553 helps bridge the gap between law enforcement and immigrant communities.
- Reduces Domestic Violence and Trafficking Vulnerability: Data from the National Immigrant Women's Advocacy Project (NIWAP) found that 76% of immigrant domestic violence victims stay in abusive relationships longer due to fear of deportation. The U Visa provides a crucial lifeline for these survivors, allowing them to leave dangerous situations and seek legal protection.
- Enhances Law Enforcement Investigations: The Department of Homeland Security (DHS) reports that the U Visa program has significantly increased cooperation from immigrant victims and witnesses, helping law enforcement agencies prosecute violent crimes, including human trafficking, sexual assault, and gang-related offenses.

How SB0553 Strengthens the U Visa Process

SB0553 improves Maryland's approach to U Visa certification by:

- Clarifying the "helpfulness" standard to establish a rebuttable presumption that victims are helpful unless they refuse or fail to provide reasonable assistance to law enforcement. This protects victims from unfair denials based on misunderstandings or language barriers.
- Reducing processing time for certification requests from 90 to 30 days (and from 14 to 7 days for victims facing deportation), ensuring that vulnerable individuals receive timely protection. Currently, the backlog for U Visa processing at the federal level exceeds five years, and delays at the local certification stage only add to victims' hardships.
- Requiring certifying entities to develop protocols for limited-English-proficient petitioners, ensuring language is not a barrier to obtaining justice. This is particularly vital given that Maryland has a rapidly growing immigrant population, with over 930,000 foreign-born residents, many of whom have limited English proficiency.

As Maryland continues to grow as a diverse and inclusive state, it is imperative that we adopt policies that support all residents in seeking justice, regardless of their immigration status. SB0553 is a commonsense measure that promotes public safety, supports crime victims, and enhances cooperation between law enforcement and immigrant communities.

Luminus respectfully urges the General Assembly to return a favorable report on SB0553 to ensure that Maryland remains a place where all victims—regardless of immigration status—can seek safety and justice. Thank you for your leadership and commitment to protecting immigrant crime survivors.

The Maryland Network Against Domestic Violence (MNADV) is the state domestic violence coalition that brings together victim service providers, allied professionals, and concerned individuals for the common purpose of reducing intimate partner and family violence and its harmful effects on our citizens. MNADV urges the Committee to favorably Report on SB553.

Bill 553 focuses on the certification process for U Nonimmigrant Status, commonly known as the U-Visa, which is designed to protect victims of certain crimes, including domestic violence, who have suffered mental or physical abuse and are willing to assist law enforcement in the investigation or prosecution of criminal activity.

The U-Visa provides temporary legal status and work eligibility in the United States for up to four years, with the possibility of applying for permanent residency after meeting specific requirements. A critical component of the U visa application is obtaining a certification from a law enforcement agency or other designated authority confirming the applicant's helpfulness in the investigation or prosecution of the crime.

By streamlining and clarifying the certification process, SB 553 will make it more accessible for domestic violence survivors to obtain the necessary documentation for their U-Visa applications. Undocumented victims face unique challenges as they may fear deportation or retaliation if they come forward. Facilitating access to U-Visas encourages these individuals to report crimes and cooperate with law enforcement, thereby enhancing public safety and ensuring that perpetrators are held accountable. We also support SB 608, which may have a better approach.

For the above stated reasons, the Maryland Network Against Domestic Violence urges a favorable report on SB553.

Testimony in Support of Senate Bill 553
Victims and Witnesses – U Nonimmigrant Status – Certification of Victim Helpfulness

Dear Chair Smith, Vice-Chair Waldstreicher and Members of the Committee,

My name is Monica Mananzan, and I am a managing attorney at the Amica Center for Immigrant Rights, a nonprofit organization that provides free legal representation to immigrant community members in ICE custody. I was also previously a VAWA Immigration Attorney at Catholic Charities of Baltimore, where I represented immigrant survivors, mostly of domestic violence, who were applying for U visas. My work in both roles has given me direct experience with the challenges this bill seeks to address. I submit this testimony in strong support of Senate Bill 553, a critical measure that enhances protections for immigrant victims of crime in Maryland by amending the state's U visa certification process. This bill ensures that victims who cooperate with law enforcement receive timely and fair certification of their assistance, making it easier for them to pursue legal status and safety.

The U visa was created to encourage immigrant victims of crime to come forward and work with law enforcement without fear of deportation. In practice, many victims experience unjust delays or denials, leaving them vulnerable and without legal protection. Senate Bill 553 addresses these challenges by strengthening procedural safeguards and ensuring a fairer, more efficient process.

One of the most important provisions of the bill establishes a rebuttable presumption of helpfulness for victims who have not refused or failed to provide information and assistance when requested. This amendment minimizes the risk of subjective or arbitrary decisions and ensures that victims are not unfairly penalized for factors beyond their control, such as misunderstandings, trauma-related difficulties, or the discretion of individual certifiers. By shifting the focus to whether a victim has actively obstructed an investigation rather than placing the burden on them to prove their cooperation, the bill creates a more just and survivor-centered process.

Another critical amendment reduces the timeframe for certifying officials to process requests. Currently, victims can face prolonged delays of up to 90 days, leaving them vulnerable to continued harm or deportation. Senate Bill 553 reduces this period to 30 days in most cases and to just 7 days for victims who are in active removal proceedings. Timely certification is crucial to safeguarding victims and upholding the law's intent.

This bill takes an important step in preventing unjust deportations by shortening the processing of U visa certification requests for individuals in removal proceedings. Under the current system, survivors frequently face deportation before they can secure certification, leaving them unable to apply for the U visa despite their eligibility. I have seen cases where individuals who were actively cooperating with law enforcement were detained and fast-tracked for removal simply because their certification request remained pending. By preventing bureaucratic delays from derailing survivors' cases, Senate Bill 553 keeps families together and ensures access to justice.

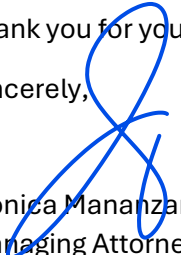

The bill also addresses a longstanding barrier by requiring certifying entities to develop protocols for petitioners with limited English proficiency. Language barriers often prevent victims from fully understanding and complying with the certification process, leading to avoidable delays or denials. A more victim-centered approach, such as the one taken by this amendment, acknowledges this challenge and ensures that language access is not an obstacle to obtaining the relief victims are entitled to under the law. Ensuring that all victims—regardless of their primary language—have access to a fair and understandable process is an important step toward equity and justice.

As an immigration attorney who provides legal representation to community members in ICE custody, I have seen firsthand how delays and inconsistencies in the U visa certification process across Maryland jurisdictions leave victims vulnerable to continued abuse, exploitation, and even deportation. The amendments proposed in Senate Bill 553 are not only necessary but urgent. They will provide clarity for law enforcement, ensure fairness for victims, and reinforce Maryland's commitment to protecting all survivors of crime, regardless of their immigration status.

I respectfully urge this committee to pass Senate Bill 553 and ensure that Maryland upholds its duty to support victims seeking justice and safety.

Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Testimony in SUPPORT of SB 553

Victims and Witnesses – U Nonimmigrant Status – Certification of Victim Helpfulness

Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee

February 7, 2025

Dear Chair Smith, Vice Chair Waldstreicher, and Members of the Committee,

CASA is pleased to offer favorable testimony in support of SB 553 - Victims and Witnesses – U Nonimmigrant Status – Certification of Victim Helpfulness. CASA is a national powerhouse organization building power and improving the quality of life in working-class: Black, Latino/a/e, Afro-descendent, Indigenous, and Immigrant communities.

With a membership of over 173,000 members, CASA creates change with its power-building model blending human services, community organizing, and advocacy to serve the full spectrum of the needs, dreams, and aspirations of members. For nearly forty years, CASA has employed grassroots community organizing to bring our communities closer together and fight for justice, while simultaneously providing much-needed services, helping to ensure that low-income immigrants can live rich and full lives.

For over two decades, CASA has provided a variety of legal services for low-income immigrants in housing, employment, and immigration matters. These include free legal consultation clinics and Know Your Rights presentations. At these consultations, many members have been identified as survivors of crimes committed in the United States and eligible for relief through the U-Visa process. In cases that CASA has been able to take on for further representation, CASA has supported members at the U-certification stage, in various jurisdictions across the state, as well as submission of U-visa applications before USCIS.

The U-Visa was created by Congress to encourage undocumented victims to come forward and assist law enforcement in investigating and prosecuting serious crimes - however, the process for obtaining certifications from law enforcement agencies in Maryland has been inconsistent, delayed or denied without clear justification. SB 553 addresses these issues by establishing a rebuttable presumption of helpfulness for victims and reducing certification processing times, ultimately strengthening the process of U-Visa certification for an immigrant victim or the victim's parent, guardian, or next friend willing to support law enforcement. SB 553 is critical for several reasons:

- Strengthens Public Safety
  - Immigrant communities are disproportionately affected by crime but are often reluctant to report due to fear of deportation or mistrust of law enforcement. Studies show that 77% of undocumented immigrants are less likely to report crimes due to deportation fears.<sup>1</sup> By clarifying the criteria for victim helpfulness and setting clear certification timelines, SB 553 ensures that more victims feel safe coming forward.
- Supporting Survivors of Violence and Abuse
  - The rebuttable presumption of helpfulness is essential because it shifts the burden of proof from the victim or the victim's parent, guardian, or next friend to prove helpfulness, and helps avoid a possibly unfair denial of certification due to misunderstandings, language barriers, trauma, or other barriers outside of the victim's control. This trauma-informed approach helps ensure that the victim or the victim's parent, guardian, or next friend know that they can come forth and provide support to law enforcement in keeping our State safe, without fear of deportation as a result.
  - Another barrier immigrant victims of crime face when seeking justice is support in their language. Approximately 49% of U visa applicants nationwide have limited English proficiency.<sup>2</sup> The bill's requirement for protocols for non-English speakers will help ensure equitable access to justice.
- Faster Track to Justice
  - Currently, processing times for law enforcement agency certifications can be as long as six months for individuals who are not in removal proceedings, with even more significant delays noted in some cases. Most recently, CASA attorneys secured a U-Visa certification from a Maryland law enforcement agency seven months after attorneys' initial request, and only after repeated attempts to expedite the process. While individuals with legal representation may have attorneys who can follow up as the deadline approaches, those without representation may be unaware of this option.
  - Note that the implementation of protocols for individuals with limited English proficiency will help address this gap. Additionally, some jurisdictions may face challenges due to staffing shortages, further contributing to delays. Survivors of crime should not have to wait such extensive lengths of time in their quest for justice and protection.

SB 553 aligns Maryland with best practices across the country and strengthens protections for crime victims, making communities safer for everyone. CASA urges the committee to pass this bill to remove obstacles for immigrant victims seeking justice.

U and T Visa Certification State Law Requirements: Review, Comparison, and Trends<sup>1</sup>

By: Abigail Wolfe, Leslye E. Orloff, and Esma Karakas<sup>2</sup>
December 31, 2024

1. Introduction

As an important part of the Violence Against Women Act of 2000 (VAWA 2000), there was a bipartisan effort to create the U visa and T visa programs as crime-fighting tools, that would enhance access to justice and help from law enforcement, prosecutors, courts, and other government officials and provide humanitarian relief for immigrant victims of crime.<sup>3</sup> Congress created the U and T visas in order to strengthen the justice system's ability to detect, investigate, prosecute, convict and sentence perpetrators of domestic violence, child abuse, sexual assault, stalking, human trafficking and other criminal activities. One significant way to achieve these goals was to offer much needed protection, safety, and stability through immigration relief, protection from deportation, employment authorization, and a path to lawful permanent residency to immigrant victims of these offenses who mustered the courage to report crime victimization to government officials.<sup>4</sup>

Victims of criminal activities perpetrated against them in the United States must obtain a U visa certification from a government official that is a required prerequisite to filing the victim's application for a U visa. Unless a U visa applicant files a signed U visa certification along with their U visa application, USCIS will reject the victim's U visa application as incomplete.<sup>5</sup> For victims of human trafficking filing for T visas, the T visa declaration is an optional form of evidence that is one of the primary ways a victim demonstrates cooperation for the victims T visa case.<sup>6</sup>

Nationally, 96% of the U visa certifications filed were signed by state or local government agencies, with 65% signed by law enforcement and 32% signed by a prosecutor, district attorney or judge.<sup>7</sup> With state and local police, prosecutors, and judges signing U visa certifications and reaping the benefits of U visa certification as a tool to build trust and fight crime in communities across the country,<sup>8</sup> twenty (20) states have enacted U visa certification and T visa declaration state statutes.

This article reviews and charts the provisions of each of the U and T visa certification laws that have been passed by state legislatures in twenty states. State U and T visa statutes are designed to encourage state and local agencies to sign U visa certifications and T visa endorsements statewide while fostering consistency and transparency in victim's ability to access certifications. State U and T visa certification law provisions are broken down into topics. The section on each topic includes a brief overview of the topic, a bulleted list comparing the various ways state laws address the topic, and a chart with the text of the provisions in each states' laws addressing that topic. The charts facilitate swift identification on trends and emerging issues related to each topic and will help advocates, attorneys, judges, and government agency staff quickly identify the U and T visa certification laws that apply in their states, in neighboring states, or other states to which a victim of domestic violence, sexual assault, stalking, dating violence, child abuse, elder abuse, or human trafficking is considering moving when fleeing an abusive home, workplace, or trafficker.

2. Certifying Agencies

A noncitizen applying for a U Visa must obtain a U Visa certification from a qualifying certifying agency. According to 8 C.F.R. § 214.14, a "Certifying agency" is defined as any Federal, State, or local law enforcement agency, prosecutor, judge, or other authority responsible for investigating or prosecuting a qualifying crime or qualifying criminal activity. This definition also includes state and federal agencies with criminal, civil, or administrative investigative or prosecutorial jurisdiction in specific areas,<sup>9</sup> examples include child and adult protective services, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC), and state and federal Departments of Labor.

State laws that require government agency officials in their states to sign U visa certifications apply their state law requirements to some or all of the state agencies authorized by federal law<sup>10</sup> and regulations<sup>11</sup> to sign U visa certifications. Some states authorize and apply state certification requirements to all state agencies that fall within the federal law definition of U visa certifying agencies outlined in 8 C.F.R. § 214.14(a)(2). Other state U visa certification laws only apply their state law certification requirements to certain specific types of state agencies authorized to certify under federal law. State laws that apply state certification requirements to a subset of federally authorized certifying agencies commonly apply state certification requirements to law enforcement agencies and prosecutors, and in a growing number of jurisdictions judges.

State statutes that require any state agency authorized to certify under federal law to comply with state certification requirement are more effective at promoting U visa certification in their states. When law enforcement, prosecutors, or judges sign U visa certifications, research has found that this promotes trust by immigrant victims and communities in certifying agencies and promotes greater access to the justice by immigrant victims.<sup>12</sup>

3. Certifying Officials

As a prerequisite to being able to file U visa applications, immigrant victim applicants must obtain a U visa certification from a government agency official authorized by federal law as a certifying official. According to federal regulations, 8 C.F.R. § 214.14(a)(3), a certifying official is defined as:

- “(i) The head of the certifying agency, or any person(s) in a supervisory role specifically designated by the head of the certifying agency to issue U nonimmigrant status certifications on behalf of that agency; or
(ii) A Federal, State, or local judge.”

This federal definition of who is authorized to sign certifications applies to all state, federal, and local certifying officials. Additionally, with regard to all certifiers, except judges, federal law only authorizes the head of the certifying agency or an agency staff member designated by the head of the agency to sign U visas certifications for the agency. The person designated by the head of the agency must be a staff member whose role in the agency includes supervisory responsibilities. Some state statutes mandate that certain certifying agencies under state law are required to designate certifying officials who are authorized to sign certifications on the agency’s behalf. Below is a list of states that address in their state laws which state government officials are responsible for signing certifications under state law:

List of Certifying Officials:

- Head of the certifying entity:
  - California (U, T, and S visas), Colorado, Maryland, Nebraska, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Virginia.
- A person in a supervisory role designated by the head of the certifying entity to issue Form I-918 Supplement B certifications (U visas), Form I-914 Supplement B certifications (T visas), Form I-854A certifications (S visas):
  - California (U, T, and S visas), Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Maryland, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Virginia, Washington
- A judge:
  - California (U, T, and S visas), Colorado, Oregon, Nebraska, Utah.
- Any other certifying official defined under 8 C.F.R. § 214.14(a):
  - California (U, T, and S visas), Colorado, Maryland, Nebraska, Utah

States laws require that the heads of state certifying agencies designate certifiers:<sup>13</sup>

<sup>13</sup> Under federal U visa laws if the agency head does not designate certifiers, then by default the only authorized signor of U visa certifications for the agency is the head of that certifying agency. The U visa statute makes all judges directly able to sign certifications. Judges do not need to use the designation process. A number of courts across the country have found it helpful to the court and for the communities they serve to assign one judge U visa certification authority for the court. See, Superior Court of California San Francisco, U-Visa Certification Protocol at 1 (2022), <https://niwaplibrary.wcl.american.edu/pubs/san-francisco-court-civil-division-u-visa-certification-protocol> (last visited Dec 10, 2024). For a model judicial certification policy for courts see, U and T Visa Certification Protocol for Courts (October 20, 2020), <https://niwaplibrary.wcl.american.edu/pubs/u-and-t-visa-certification-protocol-for-state-courts/>.

- Law requires that the heads of each certifying agency shall designate certifiers who can sign certifications and recertifications on the agency's behalf:
  - Connecticut (law enforcement only); Illinois, Minnesota, Oregon, Washington, Virginia
    - Designated certifiers are responsible for:
      - Timely processing certification requests
        - Minnesota
      - Providing outreach to victims to inform them of the entity's certification process
        - Minnesota
      - Keeping written or electronic records of all certification requests and responses
        - Minnesota
    - Those seeking certification shall submit the request to any certifying official for the agency that detected, investigated, or prosecuted the criminal activity upon which the request is based
      - Illinois, Virginia

Under the U visa program, the agencies authorized to sign U visas include any agency that detects, investigates, prosecutes, convicts or sentences crime victimization and qualifying criminal activities. The agency that detects the criminal activity need not be the agency with the responsibility for the investigation of that criminal activity. For example, in many cities there are multiple law enforcement agencies that could have jurisdiction over the location of the crime victimization or the location where the victim lives. These include police departments, sheriff's offices, state police, campus police, and the FBI. In rural jurisdictions U visa certification could be obtained from the sheriff's department or state police.

Additionally, an agency can certify when the crime occurred in another jurisdiction within the state or another state when for example the victim was victimized in one state and lives in another state and benefits from protection of local law enforcement in the victim's home state. Examples of cases where law enforcement or prosecution agencies in multiple states would have the connection with the victim or the criminal activity to be an appropriate agency from which the victim could obtain certification include:

- Stalking, domestic violence, and human trafficking cases
- Cases in which a child is sexually assaulted in one state when they are visiting relatives in that state, but only after returning home reports the sexual assault to law enforcement in their home jurisdiction
- Immigrants who are victimized by traffickers who hold them hostage, extort additional money from family members to get them released, and/or force victims into sex or labor trafficking while holding them in one state, who report the victimization after they escape the trafficking once they have fled to safety in another state.

Assisting other state agencies with certification: In some states the laws encourage agencies authorized to sign certifications to work together to help each other benefit from the U visa program's crime fighting and trust building attributes by including provisions in state law that encourage collaboration and cooperation among certifying agencies.<sup>14</sup>

- Assisting other agencies eligible to certify

<sup>14</sup> DHS supports such collaboration and cooperation among agencies. DEPT HOMELAND SEC., U AND T VISA LAW ENFORCEMENT RESOURCE GUIDE at n15(November 30, 2015), <https://niwaplibrary.wcl.american.edu/pubs/dhs-updated-u-certification-resource-guide-2015/> ("In cases where the information provided by the victim led to the detection of criminal activity, a certifying agency may sign a certification. In these cases it does not matter if another agency will be the one to determine whether to pursue a criminal investigation or prosecution. In cases where the police investigated the crime and prosecutors are now prosecuting the case, both police and prosecutors may sign a certification. The authority of the police to sign a certification does not end when the case is referred for prosecution.").

- A certifying official may act on behalf of another certifying agency through an agreement with the other certifying agency.
  - Virginia
- The head of each certifying agency shall designate an official or officials in supervisory roles, either within the agency or, by agreement with another agency with concurrent jurisdiction over the geographic area or subject matter covered by that agency, within that other agency.
  - Illinois

4. Covers U and T Visas

A growing number of state laws require certification in both U visa and T visa cases. Victims of human trafficking both sex and labor trafficking qualify under federal law to apply for U visas and for T visas. Many human trafficking victims are initially identified as a victim of another U visa criminal activity (e.g. domestic violence, child abuse, sexual assault) and later are identified as human trafficking victims. Victims of human trafficking may first file for a U visa and later file for a T visa.<sup>15</sup> As a result victims may seek either or both a U visa certification or a T visa declaration.

Additionally, victims of sex or labor trafficking can only obtain continued presence<sup>16</sup> if state and local law enforcement or prosecution officials contact federal law enforcement officials and ask them to file a continued presence request on behalf of an immigrant human trafficking victim. Some state statutes govern requests for continued presence in addition to U and T visas.

The following state certification laws cover:

- U visas:
  - Arkansas, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Louisiana (trafficking victims only) Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, Utah, U.S. Virgin Islands, Virginia Washington
- T visas:
  - Arkansas, California, Delaware, Illinois, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Rhode Island, U.S. Virgin Islands, Virginia, Washington
- S visas:

<sup>15</sup> Identifying human trafficking co-occurring with other U visa crimes including domestic violence, child abuse, sexual assault and stalking can significantly speed up the victims access to legal work authorization, protection from deportation through deferred action, and receipt of the visa because adjudication times for the T visa program are significantly faster than the U visa. Compare the U visa (I-914) with the T visa (I-918), USCIS, CHECK CASE PROCESSING TIMES, <https://egov.uscis.gov/processing-times/>.

CP allows trafficking victims to lawfully remain in the U.S. temporarily and work during the investigation into the human trafficking-related crimes committed against them and during any civil action under 18 U.S.C. § 1595 filed by the victims against their traffickers. CP is initially granted for two years and may be renewed in up to two-year increments. CP recipients also receive federal benefits and services.”).

5. Who May Request Certification and Connecting Victims with Services

Victim's advocates and attorneys provide lifesaving safety planning assistance to immigrant crime survivors and play a crucial role in informing survivors about and helping survivors obtain immigration relief.<sup>17</sup> USCIS research on the U visa program found that 91.6% of all U visa applicants have attorney representation and another 4.6 % have assistance from a victim advocate in preparing the U visa application.<sup>18</sup>

Since 63.4% of U visa victims stay in abusive homes and workplaces until they gain work authorization,<sup>19</sup> doing safety planning and having support from victim advocates and attorneys is extremely important.<sup>20</sup> This sections discusses how state statutes expand access to U visas by recognizing that many victims will be seeking U visa certification with the assistance of a person who is supporting the victims through the application process. Some state statutes explicitly recognize that a family member, victim advocate, or another person representing the victim is authorized to seek a U visa certification on the victim's behalf. Two states also require certifying agencies to connect victims with victim advocates, attorneys, and agencies providing trauma informed assistance.

Categories of Immigrants Eligible for Certification: The U visa statute grants access to U visa immigration relief to four different categories of eligible immigrants. These include:<sup>21</sup>

- Direct victims of criminal activity
- Indirect victims of criminal activity whose direct victim family member is deceased, incompetent, or incapacitated due to injury, trauma, or age
  - Victims over age 21: Spouse or unmarried children under age 21

6. Definitions Consistent with Federal Law.

Many state laws include a section that provides definitions for the terms used in the statutes. Most states include definitions for “criminal activity,” “certifying agency,” and “certifying official.” A growing number of states have implemented the best practice that ensures that the definition of terms in the state laws are consistent with and track immigration law definitions for those terms in federal regulations,<sup>22</sup> policies,<sup>23</sup> guidance and instructions.<sup>24</sup> Having state law definitions that are the same as federal law definitions ensures that immigrant victims who are eligible under federal law for the U visa are all able to receive U visa certifications in the state that are required for eligible victims to be able to file for U visa immigration relief.

7. Established Time Limit to Respond

All states with U Visa statutes include a section that addresses how quickly state agencies are required to respond to U visa certification requests. Eleven (14) states require responses to requests within 90 days or 90 business days. Three (3) states establish shorter timeframes for responses to certification requests of 30- or 60-days. Six (6) states require responses “as soon as practicable” which is an approach that is less predictable and therefore can jeopardize victim safety. As will be discussed in the next section of this report many state laws also require responses to certification requests be expedited under certain circumstances.

Four (4) state statutes provide a mechanism for certifying agencies to obtain an extension of the statutory certification deadlines. Among these states the option that best addresses victim safety concerns that can be associated with certification delays require certifying agencies that need additional time for certification to obtain a written agreement from the victim to the extension of time.

Lastly, three (3) states set timeframes for certifying agencies responding to requests for U visa recertification. Each of these states require that state agencies respond within the same time limitations for both initial certification requests and requests for recertification. There are three common reasons a victim may need to request a U visa recertification. First, the victim must file their U visa application within 6 months of the date that the U visa certification is issued. Certain types of evidence that are best practice to include in the U visa application can sometimes take time to obtain (e.g. birth certificates from the victim's home country or replacement of a passport that the abuser destroyed). In these cases if the U visa certification 6-month validity time runs out before the victim can file their U visa application the victim will need to request recertification. Secondly, when the victim applies for lawful permanent residency after being granted a U visa, USCIS encourages victims to obtain recertifications.

Statutory certification response times are:

- 30-days:
  - Arkansas, California
- 60-days:
  - Connecticut (includes subsequent certification requests)
- 90-days:
  - Colorado, Illinois (business days), Massachusetts, Maryland, Minnesota, Nebraska (business days), Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Virginia (business days), Washington
    - Applies this 90 business day response time to requests for continued presence by human trafficking victims
      - Nebraska
- 120-days:
  - Virginia
- As soon as practicable:
  - Delaware, Louisiana, Montana, North Dakota, Rhode Island, U.S. Virgin Islands

Extension of time:

- Extension of time for certification, recertification, or expedited recertification is only available to the state certifying agency with written agreement of immigrant victim U or T visa applicant:
  - Illinois, Virginia
- Exception under circumstances in which there is good cause for delay
  - Oregon
- In extenuating circumstances outside the control of the certifying entity that prevent the certifying entity from responding to the certification request in the required time period, issuing a written explanation of the delay, the process the certifying entity will undertake to respond and a projected time frame for such response.
  - Massachusetts

Recertification requests:

- The statute requires that a certifying agency reissue certifications within the following time limits after receiving a request:
  - 90 days

- Illinois (business days), Virginia (business days), Washington
  - If the victim requesting recertification has a deadline from USCIS to respond to a request for further evidence the recertification must be completed within
    - 21 business days
      - Illinois, Virginia
  - Requests for expedited recertification shall be affirmatively raised by the victim or victim's representative in writing and shall establish that the victim is eligible for expedited review
    - Illinois, Virginia
- 60 days
- Connecticut

8. Expedited Certification Available

There are two circumstances in which 11 states require that certifying agencies expedite their responses to U visa certification requests. Eleven (11) states impose swifter response times to U visa certification requests when the immigrant victim is in removal, exclusion, or deportation proceedings. Of these states 7 also require expedited responses to U visa certification requests when a qualifying family will lose U visa eligibility if the U visa application is not filed by a particular date. The date is most often the date that a child or a sibling will turn an age after which they cannot be included in their family member's U visa application. Additionally, some states (4) require that requests to expedite be submitted writing. Two (s) states require a written agreement between the certifying agency and the immigrant victim U or T visa applicant for an extension of time for certification, recertification, or expedited recertification.

9. Helpfulness Federal Law Exceptions and Presumption of Helpfulness

Under federal U visa laws victims are eligible for a U visa when they have been a victim of criminal activity committed against them in the United States and when they are being, have been, or are likely to be helpful<sup>25</sup> to a judge, law enforcement, prosecutors, or other government officials in the detection, investigation, prosecution, conviction, or sentencing of a U visa criminal activity.<sup>26</sup> Once a victim has provided helpfulness, “at the point of detection” is the earliest point in time that as a matter of federal U visa law the victim is eligible for certification.<sup>27</sup>

Should a victim who was helpful stop providing helpfulness or cooperation with reasonable requests from government officials at some future point, the victim will remain eligible for certification, for the U visa, and for lawful permanent residency based on a U visa if the victim demonstrates that they did not unreasonably refuse to cooperate with reasonable requests for assistance based on the totality of circumstances in the case.<sup>28</sup> Two states have state laws, Nebraska and Utah, that are fully consistent with the federal U visa laws, regulations, and policies

A number of other states (5) include in their statutes a presumption of helpfulness for purposes of U Visa certification if the victim has not failed or refused to provide information and assistance reasonably requested by law enforcement. This presumption approach is helpful for many victims but does not include the full federally authorized exception to helpfulness and cooperation that is part of the federal law which is that a victim may not unreasonably refuse to cooperate with reasonable requests. In assessing helpfulness California allows the victim to demonstrate that they were unaware of the request for cooperation and Colorado requires that the certifying agency’s inability to communicate with a victim due to the victim’s language must not be considered a refusal by the victim to provide assistance. State statutes take the following approaches:

- Tracking federal law:
  - Victim shall be considered helpful for certification purposes if victim has not unreasonably refused to cooperate with reasonable requests:
    - Nebraska
  - A certifying entity shall determine helpfulness as described in Subsection (1) in a manner consistent with federal guidelines
    - Utah
- Consider only qualifying activity and helpfulness: The certifying agency shall not consider any other factors in deciding whether to sign the certification form, except whether the individual was a victim of qualifying criminal activity and the victim's helpfulness
  - Colorado
- Rebuttable presumption of helpfulness:
  - California (U and T), Colorado (U visa; worded as shall, not presumption language) Illinois (U and T), Nevada (U), Oregon (U).
    - Exceptions
      - If the victim after having provided helpfulness and the victim has not refused or failed to provide information and assistance reasonably requested by law enforcement.
        - California (U and T), Colorado (U only if no documentation that the victim failed or refused) Illinois (U and T), Nevada (U); Oregon (U).

<sup>25</sup> Under federal law a victim is eligible for U visa certification once they have provided helpfulness. The helpfulness could be being provided at the time of the certification (are being helpful), or it could have been provided prior to the request for certification (have been helpful), or the victim could be likely in the judgement of the certifier to provide helpfulness in the future (likely to be helpful). There are three separate options, all three are or even two of the three are not required.

      - California (U and T)

10. Statute Consistent with Federal Law – Do Not Impose Requirements Not Present in Federal Law

Many state U visa certification laws include provisions that prevent state agencies from denying certification requests for reasons that are contrary to or not authorized or recognized by federal statutes,<sup>29</sup> regulations,<sup>30</sup> and United States Citizenship and Immigration Services policies,<sup>31</sup> guidance and publications<sup>32</sup> on U visa certification. Additionally, following the approach taken in by the federal law some state statutes explicitly confirm that under state law there is no statute of limitations with regard certifications.<sup>33</sup> This includes no limitation on how long after the criminal activity took place, how long after a report of the criminal activity was made, or how much time passed between the criminal activity and when it was reported to government officials.

Many state statutes incorporate DHS and USCIS expert guidance into their state laws by guaranteeing that under state law certifications cannot be denied because the agency is requiring any of the following: a current investigation, the filing of charges, apprehension of the suspect, case closure, a prosecution, a conviction or because the agency is imposing a statute of limitations. This approach recognizes that cooperation with law enforcement and other government officials can occur even in cases where the legal process has not advanced to include a criminal case, investigation, or prosecution. This ensures that victims of qualifying criminal activities have the flexibility to obtain certification, and the stability offered by U and T visa protections without regard to whether or not, or when a criminal investigation or prosecution may at some point in the past, present, or future be initiated by the government against the perpetrator.

The states that allow certification without imposing requirements not present in federal law include:

11. Requires Detailed Certifications, Copies of Documents, Police Reports

State U visa statutes in six (6) states provide direction to certifying agencies on how the certification forms shall be completed. This includes the specific details about the crime being detected, investigated, or prosecuted. These same six (6) states also require certifying agencies to provide detailed descriptions of the victim's past, present, or likely future helpfulness regarding the criminal activity that is being detected, investigated, prosecuted, convicted, or sentenced. In three (3) states these requirements about the details of the certification apply to both U visa certifications and T visa declarations. This section also lists state law requirement regarding returning completed signed forms to the requestors and providing victims copies of police reports and other forms of evidence that could help a victim prove the harm they endured due to the criminal activity.

12. Victim Shall Be Informed of Reasons for Denial

Several states (12) require certifying agencies to inform applicants of the reasons for denial when their U or T visa certification request is rejected. This ensures transparency and provides applicants with the necessary information to address issues identified and then resubmit the U visa certification request to the same agency or another government agency. In seven (7) states, a certifying agency must provide a written explanation to why a certification request was denied. In five (5) other states the statutes only require the agency to inform the applicant of why the request was denied.

Two states, Oregon and Colorado, in addition to requiring written denials include a best practice in their state laws by statutorily limiting the grounds on which state certifying agencies are authorized to deny U visa certifications. The Illinois statute directs that the written notice of denial be mailed to the address the victim provided when the victim requested the certification. In an event that a certification is denied, ten (10) states allow the applicant to submit additional evidence along with another U visa certification request to the same or another certifying agency.

Written explanation for denial required:

- That a written explanation for the denial of the certification be provided to the victim:
  - California, Colorado, Delaware, Illinois (“may provide”), Massachusetts, Oregon, Virginia
- Written denial notification must contain a detailed explanation of the reasons for denial with denial only authorized by state statute for one of the following reasons:
  - Lack of qualifying criminal activity
    - Oregon
  - The requestor was not a victim of qualifying criminal activity
    - Colorado, Illinois (permissive not mandatory requirement), Oregon.
  - Lack of jurisdiction over the certification form request due to the certifying agency not having been involved in the detection, investigation, or prosecution of the qualifying criminal activity:
    - Colorado, Oregon
  - Lack of helpfulness, including documented instances of failure or refusal to comply with reasonable requests for assistance:
    - Colorado, Oregon
  - Explanation of other circumstances for which a certifying official or agency may lawfully deny certification:
    - Oregon
- Written denial shall contain the agency’s internal case number and the date of denial:
  - Oregon
- The written explanation shall provide specific details about reasonable requests for cooperation and a detailed description of how the victim refused to cooperate:
  - California
- If the certifying official cannot determine whether the applicant is a victim of qualifying criminal activity or determines that the applicant does not qualify, the certifying official shall provide a written explanation setting forth reasons why the available evidence does not support a finding that the person is a victim of qualifying criminal activity.
  - Virginia
- The certifying official shall submit the notice to the address provided in the request
  - Illinois
    - This notice shall also provide contact information should the requester desire to appeal the decision
      - Illinois

State laws require that the victim be informed about the reasons for denial

- Agency shall inform the person of reasons for denial
  - Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, Rhode Island, U.S. Virgin Islands

13. Withdrawing Certifications

As discussed in Section 9 above, once an immigrant victim of criminal activity provides helpfulness to a certifying agency the victim is eligible for certification.<sup>36</sup> After that point the victim continues to remain eligible for certification and to file their U visa application and have the victim's application for a U visa and lawful permanent residency based on the U visa approved so long as the victim does not unreasonably refuse to cooperate with reasonable requests<sup>37</sup> for assistance from law enforcement, prosecutors, or another certifying agency.<sup>38</sup> The U.S. Department of Homeland Security and the U.S. Department of Justice use the following approach to determinations of whether a U visa applicant victim's refusal to cooperate was unreasonable. Both agencies:

<sup>36</sup> DEPT HOMELAND SEC., U AND T VISA LAW ENFORCEMENT RESOURCE GUIDE at 18 (November 30, 2015), <https://niwaplibrary.wcl.american.edu/pubs/dhs-updated-u-certification-resource-guide-2015/>.

<sup>37</sup> The applicant may provide to USCIS and to the certifying agency requesting cooperation a detailed description about why the victim refused to comply with a request for assistance that the victim believed was unreasonable. 8 C.F.R. § 245.24(e)(2)(ii).

“will determine whether the alien’s refusal was unreasonable under the totality of the circumstances based on all available affirmative evidence....[and] may take into account such factors as general law enforcement, prosecutorial, and judicial practices; the kinds of assistance asked of other victims of crimes involving an element of force, coercion, or fraud; the nature of the request to the alien for assistance; the nature of the victimization; the applicable guidelines for victim and witness assistance; and the specific circumstances of the applicant, including fear, severe traumatization (both mental and physical), and the age and maturity of the applicant.”<sup>39</sup>

This is the federal standard that has been adopted by the states of Nebraska, Utah, and Washington in the sections of their state statutes that govern when and under what circumstances a certifying agency or certifying official in these states can withdraw or disavow a U visa certification or T visa declaration. Other state laws have included some parts, but not the full federal law standards, into their state legislation. The Illinois and Virginia statutes permit withdrawal of certification if the victim unreasonably refuses to cooperate but omits the part of the federal law that also requires that the requests be reasonable. The state statutes in Maryland, Nevada and California do the opposite; their statutes authorize withdrawing of certifications when the victims refuse to provide assistance reasonably requested but omit federal law exemption that allows victims to gain access to the U visa and lawful permanent residency so long as they do not unreasonably refuse to cooperate with reasonable requests. Lastly three (3) states authorize withdrawal of certifications when the certifying agency later determines that the person receiving the certification was not a victim of a qualifying criminal activity.<sup>40</sup>

- Tracks federal law
  - For U visas allowing withdrawal of applications provided the request of assistance was reasonable and the victim unreasonably refused to assist. This approach accurately reflects federal law 8 C.F.R. § 214.14(h)(2)(i)(A)
    - Nebraska, Utah, Washington
  - For T visas allows disavowal or withdrawal of declarations provided they include a detailed explanation in writing 8 C.F.R. § 214.204(h)
    - Nebraska
- Permits certifying officials to notify USCIS if one of the following occurs:
  - The victim unreasonably refuses to assist in the investigation or prosecution of the criminal activity
    - Illinois, Virginia
  - The victim fails provide information and assistance when reasonably requested
    - Utah
  - If the person who received the certification was later determined not to be a victim of a qualifying criminal activity.
    - Illinois, Virginia, Utah
- Certifying agency may not withdraw the certification unless
  - The victim refuses to provide assistance reasonably requested
    - California (U visa), Maryland, Nevada
      - When an under 16-year-old victim’s parent, guardian, or next friend refused to provide information reasonably requested
        - Maryland
  - The victim refuses to provide information and assistance reasonably requested
    - California (T and S visas)

14. What Certification Is and Is Not

Several states (10), include information in their statutes designed to clarify for certifiers what U visa certification is and is not under both the state statute which is most cases in consistent with federal immigration laws, regulations, policies, and guidance issued by USCIS and DHS. These statutes describe what is being certified when a certifying agency signs a U visa certification and confirm that the state certifying agency is not granting a U visa by signing the U visa certification which is a required prerequisite that an eligible immigrant crime victim must obtain from a government official to be able to file a U visa application.<sup>41</sup> State statutes describing what is being certified:

- Individual or their family member<sup>42</sup> was a victim of qualifying criminal activity:
  - Colorado, Connecticut, Maryland, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington
- Victim's helpfulness: A victim who has been helpful, is being helpful, or is likely to be helpful to the detection, investigation, or prosecution<sup>43</sup> of that qualifying criminal activity qualifies for U visa certification
  - Colorado, Connecticut (missing detection), Maryland, Oregon, Utah, Washington
    - Helpfulness can be offered by victim's parent, guardian, or next friend when the victim is
      - Under the age of 16 when an act which constitutes an element of the criminal activity first occurred
        - Maryland
      - Incapacitated or incompetent
        - Maryland
  - For purposes of determining helpfulness a victim is helpful, has been helpful, or is likely to be helpful to the detection, investigation, or prosecution of that qualifying criminal activity if there is no documentation that the victim refused or failed to provide assistance reasonably requested by law enforcement.
    - Colorado
  - The certifying agency shall not consider any other factors in deciding whether to sign the certification form, except whether the individual was a victim of qualifying criminal activity and the victim's helpfulness
    - Colorado
- Victim possesses information about the criminal activity:
  - Connecticut<sup>44</sup>

<sup>42</sup> Immigrant parents whose child or stepchild was a victim is eligible to file a U visa. Also in cases of murder, manslaughter spouses and children are considered direct victims. <sup>43</sup> The U visa regulations define "investigation or prosecution" to include detection, investigation, prosecution, conviction, or sentencing. 8 C.F.R. § 214.14(a)(5). All of these state laws are missing conviction and sentencing and Connecticut is missing detection.

<sup>44</sup> In case of a victim who is a child, incapacitated or incompetent a parent, guardian or next friend can provide the required helpfulness. USCIS, U VISA LAW ENFORCEMENT RESOURCE GUIDE FOR FEDERAL, STATE, LOCAL, TRIBAL AND TERRITORIAL LAW ENFORCEMENT, PROSECUTORS, JUDGES AND OTHER GOVERNMENT AGENCIES at 8 (February 28, 2022), <https://niwaplibrary.wcl.american.edu/pubs/u-visa-certification-resource-guide-2022/>.

- That the victim had not refused to provide information reasonably requested by a law enforcement, prosecutors, or other certifying official<sup>45</sup>
  - Colorado, Connecticut

Some state statutes provide additional descriptions about the U visa and T visa certification process that provide helpful clarification for certifiers and the public. These statutory provisions can also be useful as a basis for jury instructions and training of certifiers. The following state statute clarifications are consistent with federal law and include:

- Certification shall not be considered sufficient evidence that an applicant for a U or T visa has met all eligibility requirements for the visa<sup>46</sup>
  - Colorado, Illinois, Virginia
- Completion of a certification form by a certifying official shall not be construed to guarantee that the victim will receive federal immigration relief.<sup>47</sup>
  - Colorado, Illinois, Virginia
- It is the exclusive responsibility of federal immigration officials to determine whether a person is eligible for a U or T visa.<sup>48</sup>
  - Illinois, Nebraska, Virginia
- Completion of a certification form by a certifying official merely verifies factual information relevant to the federal immigration benefit sought, including information relevant for federal immigration officials to determine eligibility for a U or T visa.<sup>49</sup>
  - Colorado, Illinois, Nebraska, Virginia
- By completing a certification form, the certifying official attests that the information is true and correct to the best of the certifying official's knowledge<sup>50</sup>
  - Colorado, Illinois, Virginia
- No provision in this Act limits the manner in which a certifying officer or certifying agency may describe whether the person has cooperated or been helpful to the agency or provide any additional information the certifying officer or certifying agency believes might be relevant to a federal immigration officer's adjudication of a U or T visa application.
  - Illinois, Virginia

<sup>45</sup> As described above in Sections 9 and 13, this description of the exemption from the U visa's ongoing requirement of U visa applicants to cooperate with law enforcement and prosecutors is not fully correct because the Colorado and Connecticut statutes only include the part of the exemption that requires that a certifying agency's requests for cooperation from victims be reasonable. The statutes omit the victim's statutory ability to remain eligible for certification, a U visa, and lawful permanent residency based on the U visa so long as the victim did not unreasonably refuse to cooperate with reasonable requests from law enforcement. 8 C.F.R. 245.24(e)(1)-(4).

15. Confidentiality Protections

A number of states (10) prohibit the disclosure of an applicant's immigration status, except in limited circumstances, such as when required to comply with federal law or legal processes, or if authorized by the victim. These state law provisions supplement and promote compliance with federal VAWA confidentiality laws. Congress created federal VAWA confidentiality laws<sup>51</sup> that protect immigrant victims of domestic violence, child abuse, sexual assault, stalking, human trafficking and other U visa listed criminal activities from having information about the existence of, actions taken in, or information contained in their VAWA, T visa, and U visa applications for immigration relief disclosed or released to their perpetrator or anyone who could provide the information to the perpetrator.<sup>52</sup> U visa victims receive VAWA confidentiality protections when the victim is seeking to file a U or T visa or when a DHS employee has reason to believe they may victim eligible to file for T or U visa protection.<sup>53</sup> When a victim requests a U visa certification from state government officials that is a required prerequisite to filing a U visa application the victim is in the process of seeking a U visa and receives VAWA confidentiality protections.

When states include confidentiality protections in state U visa certification laws these state laws work in tandem with federal VAWA confidentiality protections offering significant benefits to both victims and government agencies. Confidentiality protections encourage crime reporting, enhance victim protection, and foster trust in government officials. By maintaining confidentiality, victims can seek U Visa certification with less fear of perpetrator retaliation including through treats of deportation and enhancing victim safety enabling more immigrant victims to seek access to justice and the services and support they need to rebuild their lives and the lives of their children. Ultimately, these protections ensure that victims feel supported and better able to cooperate with law enforcement, prosecutors, and other government officials and more willing to seek help from courts contributing to improved public safety and community trust.<sup>54</sup>

16. Adopting Certification Policies

Several state laws (5) require certifying agencies to adopt U visa certification policies. This is to ensure people are informed of the process and the certifying agency has a uniform policy for signing certifications. Some state statutes require that certifying agency's U visa certification policies be made public.

- U visa certification included in crime scene family violence response protocols:
  - Statue requires implementation at crime scenes with officer's responsibilities described under the state's Uniform protocols for treating victims of family violence whose immigration status is questionable
    - Connecticut
- Adopt U visa certification policies
  - Statute requires each certifying agency to adopt a policy for completing and signing U and T visa certifications
    - Massachusetts
  - Statute requires each certifying agency to develop written procedures for processing requests for U visa certification
    - Oregon
  - Statute requires certifying agencies to make their procedures for U and T visa certification publicly available
    - Illinois, Virginia

It allows for more uniform information about certification procedures among the public and the certifying agencies.

- States that require certifying agencies to publish their certification procedures to provide public notice are:

18. Involves a State Oversight

Statutes in six (6) assign the responsibility for U visa certification oversight to the state legislature, the State Attorney General, or a state oversight committee. This section provides an outline of each approach. State oversight helps ensure that certifying agencies are following certification procedures and federal law. For additional information on the roles of and requirements regarding annual reports and training see Sections 19 and 22 below.

- State Legislature: State statute requires that certifying agencies report annually to a state agency responsible for oversight and reporting to the state legislature
  - California, Colorado, Massachusetts, Nevada, Oregon, Utah
- State's Attorney General is involved in enforcement of the certification statute
  - Illinois
- State Multi-Disciplinary Committee of Appointees: State statute created a multi-disciplinary committee of members who serve voluntarily that is staffed by the state's office of crime victim advocacy that is responsible for:
  - Monitoring compliance with certification in the state
    - Washington
  - Developing and implementing training of law enforcement, prosecutors, victim advocates, state agency personnel, court personnel about certification requirements

19. Annual Reports

State statutes in ten (10) states require annual reporting on U visa certification requests, denials, and withdraws and five (5) of these states also require reporting on T visa declarations. The annual reports assist in providing statistics to the state about U and T visa certifications by certifying agencies in the state each year. Annual reporting also assists the state in identifying existing and emerging problems with compliance by agencies in the state with the state's U and T visa certification laws. Annual reports are generally required to be submitted to a state government agency or the legislature. Two state statutes require that annual reports be made publicly available.

20. Maintaining Copies of Certifications

USCIS encourages certifying agencies to make two originals of the signed U visa certification and to provide one original to the victim to include in their U visa application and keep the second original in the certifying agency's records.<sup>59</sup> Four (4) state statutes require certifying agencies to keep copies of their U visa certifications including generally certifications requested, granted, denied (with reasons for denial), and withdrawn. Best practice is to written or electronic copies of U visa certifications issues for a sufficient amount of time until the victim's U visa case and their application for lawful permanent residence based on receipt of a U visa can both be adjudicated. This approach ensures that U visa certifications remain accessible by the certifying agency to meet the victim's recertification needs when they apply for lawful permanent residence. This also supports the ability of the certifying agency to swiftly respond to questions should USCIS contact the agency about a U visa certification the agency signed.<sup>60</sup>

<sup>59</sup> USCIS, U VISA LAW ENFORCEMENT RESOURCE GUIDE FOR FEDERAL, STATE, LOCAL, TRIBAL AND TERRITORIAL LAW ENFORCEMENT, PROSECUTORS, JUDGES AND OTHER GOVERNMENT AGENCIES at 12 (February 28, 2022), <https://niwaplibrary.wcl.american.edu/pubs/u-visa-certification-resource-guide-2022/> (This helps the certifying agency locate and refer to the certification should USCIS contact the certifying agency with questions about the certification).

<sup>60</sup> Although these states only require that state agencies maintain certifications for three years, as of December 2024 it was taking over 51 months for USCIS to issue bona fide determinations in U visa cases and up to 15 years for a U visa applicant to be granted a U visa. U visa recipients are eligible to apply for lawful permanent residence after 3 years as a U visa holder and those cases are taking up to over two years to adjudicate. As a result the total time from filing to lawful permanent residence for a U visa applicant will be over two

21. Immunity and Enforcement Including Judicial or Agency Review

Four (4) state statutes provide immunity from liability for certifying agencies who act in good faith to comply with state certification requirements, with three states including immunity exceptions for willful or wonton misconduct or gross negligence.

States that include mechanism of appeal of U visa certification denials or delays in issuance of certifications beyond the state’s statutorily imposed deadlines take three different approaches outlined below – judicial review by a state court judge (Virginia); state Attorney General review (Illinois), or appeal to the certifying agency (Colorado, Illinois). Three states authorize attorney’s fees and court costs or the prevailing party related to enforcement actions for certification denials and delays.

- Immunity from liability provided to certifying agencies and certifying officials who act or fail to act in good faith to comply with state statutory certification requirements
  - Illinois, Maryland, Oregon
    - Except in cases of
      - Willful or wanton misconduct

  - Upon finding that the certifying agency denied the application without a factual or legal justification, or failed to respond to the applicant, the circuit court shall make an award of reasonable costs and attorney fees to a prevailing applicant.

      - May compel compliance may maintain an action for declaratory, injunctive or any other equitable relief through a circuit court action
        - Illinois
- Appeal to the Certifying Agency:
  - Certifying agencies required to notify victims denied certification or their right to appeal the denial to the certifying agency
    - Colorado, Illinois
      - Certifying agency shall respond to appeals within 30 business days
        - Illinois
  - Victim is not required to exhaust administrative appeal before filing a mandamus action or seeking other equitable relief:

22. Training Requirements

To create a uniform certification process, three (3) states have statutes that require training on U and T visa certification for certifying agency officials and staff. Aside from U and T Visas, some states incorporate other training topics related to best practices for working on family violence cases and particularly with immigrant victims.

- Includes training on U and T visas
  - Connecticut (U visa only), Illinois, Washington
- Requires training on the state's Family Violence Model Policy which includes
  - Requirements regarding treatment of persons whose immigration status is questionable and building relationships with family violence organizations who provide trauma-informed care to victims
    - Connecticut (U visa only)
- Requires development and adoption of minimum standards for a course of study on U and T nonimmigrant visas, other legal protections for immigrant survivors of criminal activity, and promising practices in working with immigrant victims:

Training under such program shall also include, within available appropriations, information on (i) the impact of arrests of multiple parties in a family violence case on the immigration status of the parties; (ii) crime scene investigation and evaluation practices in family violence cases designed by the council to reduce the number of multiple arrests in family violence cases; and (iii) practical considerations in the application of the general statutes related to family violence. Such training shall also address, within available appropriations, eligibility for federal T Visas for victims of human trafficking and federal U Visas for unauthorized immigrants who are victims of family violence and other crimes.

23. Legislative History

Two states, Nevada and Washington, include legislative history in their state U visa certification statutes. Legislative history can be useful to help with U and T visa certification implementation as it helps certifying agencies understand in greater detail the legislative intent behind the statute and how legislators expect the state certification process to be implemented by certifying governmental agencies in the state.

Existing federal law authorizes a certifying official to complete and sign the petitioner's Form 1-918, Supplement B, if the official determines that the petitioner was the victim of certain criminal activity and that the victim was helpful, is being helpful or is likely to be helpful to the investigation or prosecution of criminal activity. Further, when determining whether the petitioner meets the requirements of the Form 1-918, Supplement B, section 8 prohibits a certifying agency from considering the period of time between when the petitioner was victimized by the criminal activity and when the petitioner requested certification or whether there is an active criminal investigation, the filing of charges or a prosecution or conviction of the criminal activity. Section 9 of this bill requires a certifying agency to process the certification of the Form 1-918, Supplement B, within 90 days after the date of the petitioner's request, unless the petitioner is 20 years of age or in the process of being deported, in which case the request must be processed within 14 days. Section 10 of this bill prohibits a certifying agency from withdrawing the certification of the Form 1-918, Supplement B, unless the petitioner refuses or fails to assist a law enforcement agency in the prosecution or investigation of the criminal activity. Section 10 also prohibits a certifying agency from disclosing the immigration status of a petitioner unless the certifying agency is required to do so because of federal law or a court order or the petitioner consents, in writing, to such a disclosure. Section 10 does not relieve a prosecutor or law enforcement officer from his or her duty to disclose exculpatory evidence to a defendant in a criminal case. Section 10 also requires certifying agencies to develop a protocol to help petitioners who have a limited proficiency in the English language or who are deaf, hard of hearing or speech impaired in the certification process. Section 10 also requires each certifying agency that receives a request for certification to submit an annual report to the Legislature concerning certain statistics related to the certification process.

24. Language Access

In order to promote limited English (LEP) proficient crime victim's access justice and the services and support certifying government agencies provide, four (4) states required all certifying agencies in the state to implement language access protocols. Implementing language access protocol is a best practice that promotes compliance by state certifying agencies with federal language access laws.<sup>61</sup>

<sup>61</sup> For more information on federal language access laws and requirements to provide LEP persons access to government agency services through the use of qualified interpreters and translators, see, LEP.gov, <https://www.lep.gov/>; DOJ Law Enforcement Language Access Initiative, <https://www.lep.gov/law-enforcement/>; State Courts, <https://www.lep.gov/state-courts/>; Asian Pacific Institute on Gender Based Violence, Language Access, Interpretation, and Translation, <https://www.api-gbv.org/culturally-specific-advocacy/language-access/> (Provides resources to support development of language access plans and interpreter training); See also, NIWAP, Speaking Justice: Providing Language Access in the Courts – Webinar & Training Materials Language Access (April 2, 2024)

Colorado includes statutory requirement that promote access to U visa certification by LEP victims by ensuring that the certifying agencies' inability to communicate using a qualified interpreter cannot be considered for purposes of the U visa certification program as factor in evaluating whether a U visa victim refused or failed to provide assistance.

- All certifying entities shall implement language access protocols
  - Minnesota (U and T visas), Nebraska (U and T visas), Nevada, Washington (U and T visas)
- A certifying agency's inability to communicate with a Victim due to the victim's language must not be considered a refusal or failure to provide assistance.

Maryland Catholic Conference_FAVSB553_.pdf

Uploaded by: Michelle Zelaya

Position: FWA

February 7, 2025

SB553

Victims and Witnesses - U Nonimmigrant Status - Certification of Victim Helpfulness

Judicial Proceeding Committee

Position: Favorable w/ Amendments

The Maryland Catholic Conference (MCC) offers this testimony in support of Senate Bill 553 with amendments. The MCC represents the public policy interests of the three (arch)dioceses serving Maryland, which together encompass over one million Marylanders. Across the state, Catholic parishes, schools, hospitals, and charitable organizations form Maryland's second-largest social service provider network, surpassed only by the state government.

Senate Bill 553 is an important step in protecting immigrant victims of crime and ensuring that all Marylanders receive fair and equal treatment, regardless of where a crime occurs. The original U visa certification law was a crucial measure in making communities safer by encouraging immigrant victims to come forward and report crimes. However, despite its intent, inconsistencies remain in the certification process, with some agencies delaying or outright refusing to certify eligible victims. This bill proposes necessary improvements to strengthen protections for immigrant victims, increase transparency, and ensure timely and fair processing of U visa certifications.

As a matter of justice, human dignity, and solidarity, the Catholic Church supports efforts that defend the vulnerable and marginalized. As Pope Benedict XVI wrote in Caritas in Veritate, “Every migrant is a human person who, as such, possesses fundamental, inalienable rights that must be respected by everyone and in every circumstance” (62). SB 553 aligns with this moral imperative by improving legal protections and fostering trust between immigrant communities and law enforcement.

Proposed Amendments to Strengthen SB 553

The MCC supports SB 553 with the following amendments, which were developed by CLINIC (Catholic Legal Immigration Network, Inc) in collaboration with their many stakeholders:

- 1. Rebuttable Presumption of Helpfulness

- While Maryland law has been interpreted to presume the helpfulness of immigrant victims, some certifiers do not apply it as such. Explicitly codifying this presumption would provide clarity and ensure consistency in decision-making.

2. Language Access and Assistance for Non-English Speakers

- Many immigrant victims face language barriers when engaging with law enforcement and certifying agencies. Establishing clear protocols to assist individuals with limited English proficiency will ensure equitable access to justice.

3. Prohibition of Blanket Policies Based on Timing

- Many victims of crime are unaware of the U visa process and may not seek certification until years after the crime. Other states, such as Nevada and Colorado, prohibit agencies from denying certification based on the time elapsed between the crime and the request for certification. Maryland should adopt similar language to protect victims' rights.

4. Annual Reporting Requirement

- Law enforcement agencies should be required to track and report the number of U visa certification requests received, granted, denied, and pending. Transparency in reporting, as seen in other states, ensures accountability and consistency in the certification process.

5. Accountability Mechanism for Denied Certifications

- Virginia allows victims to seek assistance from a court if they believe a certification was improperly denied. Maryland should provide a similar mechanism, as the current legal standard for holding agencies accountable is too high and effectively grants immunity even in cases of inaction.

6. Appeal Process for Denials

- If a certification request is denied, the agency should be required to provide a reason and allow the applicant to submit additional evidence to support their claim.

7. Multiple Certifiers Permitted

- Any agency that detects, investigates, or prosecutes a qualifying crime should be able to certify a U visa request. No agency should take precedence over another, and one agency's denial should not prevent another from granting certification.

8. Clarification of Certification Purpose

- The law should state explicitly that certifiers may only consider (1) whether the individual was a victim of a qualifying crime and (2) whether they were helpful to law enforcement. Other factors, such as personal opinions on immigration policy, should not influence certification decisions.

The MCC urges a favorable report with amendments for Senate Bill 553 to ensure that Maryland upholds the dignity and rights of immigrant victims of crime. By fostering trust between immigrant communities and law enforcement, ensuring fair and timely certification processes, and providing clear guidelines for agencies, this bill will make our state safer and more just for all.

We appreciate your consideration and respectfully urge the committee to adopt these amendments and issue a favorable report for SB 553.

Victims and Witnesses-U Nonimmigrant Status – Certification of Victim Helpfulness
Submitted February 5, 2025
Position: Support with Amendments

“We ourselves need to see, and then to enable others to see, that migrants and refugees do not only represent a problem to be solved, but are brothers and sisters to be welcomed, respected and loved. They are an occasion that Providence gives us to help build a more just society, a more perfect democracy, a more united country, a more fraternal world and a more open and evangelical Christian community.” (His Holiness Pope Francis, Messages for the 2014 and 2019 World Days of Migrants and Refugees)

About CLINIC

As the nation’s largest charitable immigration legal services network, the Catholic Legal Immigration Network, Inc. (“CLINIC”) provides substantive legal and program management training and resources as well as advocacy support at state, local, and national levels. CLINIC serves over 400 affiliates organizations across 49 states and the District of Columbia, providing crucial legal services to hundreds of thousands of low-income and otherwise vulnerable immigrants every year. Embracing the Gospel value of welcoming the stranger, CLINIC cultivates projects that promote the dignity and protect the rights of vulnerable immigrant populations. CLINIC’s national office is in Silver Spring, Maryland. In serving our affiliate network and through our programming, CLINIC has particular expertise in the life-changing -- and at times life-saving -- role that access to representation makes in the life of an immigrant.

Position

CLINIC supports, with amendments, SB 553, the Victims and Witnesses – U Nonimmigrant Status – Certification of Victim Helpfulness bill. When the original U visa certification bill was passed in Maryland, it was a very important piece of legislation that helped protect immigrant victims of crime. It made our communities safer by encouraging these victims to come forward and report crimes to law enforcement. Many of the provisions were incredibly useful, particularly having a uniform turnaround time for agencies processing these requests.

CLINIC is very grateful to those agencies who have worked so diligently in the support of immigrant survivors. That being said, there have also been those certifiers who still do not complete certification in a timely manner, or, who even go as far as refusing to certify altogether.

Because of this, CLINIC approves of the proposed changes in the Senate bill and has a few more suggestions that were drafted in a series of meetings by various stakeholders.

The bill should assist immigrant victims of crime and ensure that all Marylanders are receiving similar treatment regardless of where in the state the crime occurred.

Changes in the SB 553 Bill

1) Rebuttable Presumption

Although CLINIC has treated the Maryland law as having a rebuttable presumption of helpfulness in favor of immigrant victims, several certifiers have not interpreted the law in this manner. Spelling this out in the law will be very useful.

2) Protocols to Assist Petitioners Who Have Limited English Proficiency to Proceed

CLINIC recognizes the wonderful diversity of our immigrant communities in Maryland and believes that in the interest of equity and valuing the human dignity of every immigrant victim, that certifiers should have important protocols that assist non-English speakers to have access to justice.

CLINIC's Additional Suggestions

For the last several years, CLINIC has been in touch with its Maryland affiliates and other partners including Catholic Legal Immigration Network, Catholic Charities DC, Catholic Charities Baltimore, Tahirih Justice Center, the ACLU, Kids in Need of Defense, Luminus, Amica Center, HIAS, the Women's Law Center, World Relief and private attorneys. We have discussed U visa certification concerns in Maryland as there have been some consistent issues.

Based on our meetings, here is a list of our additional suggestions:

1) A prohibition of blanket policies around when the crime happened and when the immigrant is seeking certification.

Many victims of crime do not know about the U visa and will find out about it years down the road.

Helpful language that exists in other states includes Nevada's law that "prohibits a certifying agency from considering the period of time between when the petitioner was victimized by the criminal activity and when the petitioner requested certification."

Colorado's law states, "More than one victim may be identified and provided with certification, depending upon the circumstances."

2) A reporting mechanism. Many states have law enforcement agencies track and report each year the number of certification requests received, how many were granted, how many were denied, the number of pending certifications on the date that the data is pulled for reporting, and the reasons for the denials. States vary on who receives this information:

the Attorney General, a Criminal Justice Commission, a Legislative Committee, the public, etc.

3) An Accountability mechanism. Virginia has a law that allows victims to seek assistance from a court if they believe a certification was improperly denied. Maryland's law has language that gives immunity from liability except in cases of "willful or wanton misconduct." This standard is very high and gives immunity to certifying agencies who not only act in good faith but to those who also fail to act in good faith.

Maryland's law also does not allow for attorney's fees except for willful or wanton misconduct. CLINIC has not seen a single court action against a certifier in the many years since the bill became law, even though we know there have been plenty of issues.

Attorneys and immigrants are just not incentivized to seek this remedy.

4) Appeal of a Denial. States have language that when a denial is issued, the agency shall inform the individual of the reason, and that the individual may make another request and submit additional evidence satisfying the other requirements.

5) Multiple Certifiers are Allowed. Any agency that can detect, investigate and/or prosecute the qualifying criminal activity is able to certify. No agency takes precedence over another. No agency should wait upon an approval or denial from another agency but rather should determine whether to certify based on the victim's helpfulness with their agency.

6) Language Around Purpose of U Cert. It is important to clarify that certifiers shall not consider any other factors in deciding whether to sign the certification form, except whether the individual was a victim of qualifying criminal activity and the victim's helpfulness.

CLINIC Urges Lawmakers to Support SB 553

CLINIC urges lawmakers to support SB 553 with amendments to uphold the rights and dignity of immigrant victims of crime in Maryland. We hope to see all certifiers being willing to certify U visa certification requests in a timely and informed manner that does not subject immigrants to further trauma. It is a challenge for immigrant victims to come forward and report crimes as they may face language, cultural, and financial challenges to reporting. There is the fear, however justified or not, that reporting to the police could land them in immigration removal proceedings or detention. It is vital that Maryland does what it can to protect its immigrants and empowers them further to report their crime and collaborate with law enforcement.

CLINIC appreciates your consideration and urges a favorable report with amendments for Senate Bill 553.
