

My name is Jeff Ross and my children are both homeschooled by my wife. We live and breathe sports in our home and my kids wouldn't know what to do if they didn't have sports to play. As we approach high school with our oldest, we hope the state will agree with the other 39 states that allow homeschooled kids to play.

We pay quite a bit of taxes living in this state and the least we could get out of those would be the ability to participate in sports at the high school level. Our kids invest so much time and energy into growing in each sport they play and they'd love to reunite with former teammates and be able to play with them again in high school. Do the right thing and let the kids play!
