

My name is Ruby Ross and I am eleven years old. I started playing sports when I was three years old. Currently, I am playing three sports. My top sport is travel softball and I also play county basketball and girl's flag football. Playing sports is my absolute favorite thing to do! I have always looked forward to playing in high school with friends I used to play with when I was younger. I also love homeschool and don't want to go back to school.

I take sports very seriously. I am a pitcher on my softball team and we practice three times a week. I also have pitching lessons once a week and practice my pitching almost every day. I do batting drills many times a week too. Last year I tried out for the All American Games in Florida and I was chosen to represent the Northeast! I got to play with girls from all over the country and out of twelve teams, my team won the championship! I can't wait to try out again in May.

Sports keep me busy, healthy, happy and help me make friends. I can't think of anything else I'd rather do more than play. I don't understand why I can't try out for and play once I get to high school age. I think homeschool kids should be able to play sports in high school. Please help me live my dream!
