

To whom it may concern,

The overall impact of this bill appears to be primarily including students in overseeing the library, and this goal seems quite desirable. Obviously we want to ensure that students value libraries and understand the challenges they face, and become involved in that. However, the criteria for inclusion excludes homeschooled students. It is my belief that all students, regardless of method of education, should have equal opportunity to become involved in this program.

With such an amendment, this bill would be quite desirable.

Thank you,
Travis Lerol