

Good afternoon,

My name is Adam Brousseau and I would be registered as an independent if Maryland had semi-open or open primaries. I believe the election maps should be fair and only looked at every Census, not in the middle because of national news. Today's map is not fair with the representation of our state. Our former Governor, Larry Hogan, went before the Supreme Court to testify against unfair gerrymandering and fought against such partisan actions. The makeup in our current General Assembly would allow this to be a partisan issue that could be pushed through since Maryland is a super-majority democratic state. I urge the General Assembly to reject such partisan actions and go back to things that concern all Marylanders, like affordability with energy bills.

Thank you for your time,

Adam Brousseau
