

To whom it may concern,

I intend to homeschool my son, and would like him to have the same opportunities as any other child would. After all, I pay property tax same as they do, and my child not occupying educational resources in some areas should not prevent him from having opportunities in others. This “all or nothing” packaging is discriminatory to homeschooling families, and results in reduced opportunity for many Maryland students.

Thank you,
Travis Lerol